LONDON, Nov. 17.—American and British task forces today pushed farther into Tunisia for a showdown battle with Axis troops seeking to maintain a foothold in North Africa by retaining control of the Bizerte naval base and Tunis, the capital.

United States mobile units moved up from Algiers and Oran to reinforce the combined British and American army under command of Lt. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson, it was announced officially at Allied headquarters in North Africa.

The eastern task force and reconnaissance forces under Gen. Anderson, an official announcement said, have penetrated into Tunisia but according to latest word received has not yet contacted any Axis forces.

French Joining

Allied headquarters said that small French military units already had joined up with the eastern and center task forces to redeem their empire territory from the Germans and Italians.

The fighting in progress around Bizerte and Tunis continued to be waged by French forces defying the attempts of air and sea-borne Nazis and Fascists to extend their control before the Allies launch their major assault.

The German radio claimed that Junker 52 transport planes were making "an aerial bridge" between Sicily, Europe and Tunisia. The

Gen. MacArthur In New Guinea Directing Drive On Japanese

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, In Australia, Nov. 17.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, America's top-ranking military commander in the field, has moved into New Guinea with his ground and air force commanders to direct personally the Allied drive to oust the Japanese from Papua, it was revealed today.

Gen. MacArthur transferred the advance of his headquarters into New Guinea as Australian jungle fighters pressed westward and American forces moved in from the southeast in a twin-drive to destroy the enemy base at Buna on the north coast.

Near Jap Buna Base

Advanced Allied patrols, it was disclosed, have reached the vicinity of Awala, within 16 airline miles of the Jap Buna base.

With Gen. MacArthur in the field were his deputy commander, Australian Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, and the American commander of Allied air forces in the southwest Pacific, Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney.

"It can now be revealed," a spokesman at headquarters said (Continued On Page Two)

Jubilant In Honolulu Over Naval Victory

By RICHARD HALLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 17.—Early expulsion of all Japanese forces from bitterly-contested Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons was predicted by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz today in the wake of America's latest and greatest naval victory in the Pacific.

As details of the engagement became known, with disclosure that United States battleships had played a major part and "contributed materially" to the gigantic Japanese losses, a feeling of utmost jubilation spread through Honolulu and there was warmest praise for Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, who commanded the American forces.

Admiral Nimitz himself was in a jovial mood when he summoned newspapermen to his cabin aboard his flagship to tell the great story of how 23 Japanese ships were sunk and seven damaged in the four-day sea battle as against the loss of two American light cruisers and six destroyers.

Tonight in The Castleton hotel, New Castle opens its war time drive for funds under the banner of the United War Work Fund. The goal set for the 200 or more workers who will attend the dinner is $90,000 and the chairman, Judge G. Lamoree is confident that the objective will be reached and passed.

This year the Community Chest is joined with war needs. Locally the following nine organizations are included in the drive, Margaret Henry Home, City Rescue Mission, Jameson Memorial Hospital, New Castle Hospital, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the Salvation Army. Along with the local needs are the following war activities that need help and are receiving it through the medium of war drives all over the country: British War Relief, Russian War Relief, Greek War Relief, Chinese War Relief, Polish War Relief, War Prisoners' Aid, United Service Organization and the American Social Hygiene. Each one will share in the $90,000 that will be raised in New Castle.

(BULLETIN 2 P. M.)

At 1:45 o'clock this afternoon, Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner announced that the New Castle-Aliquippa high class AA WPAL championship football game will not be played in the Pitt stadium, as previously announced.

The WPAL football committee late this morning was notified that the stadium will not be available due to the fact that the stadium equipment has been stored and that the personnel has been dismissed for the season.

As a result, the contest will be played either in Ambridge or New Castle. Officials probably will use the flip of the coin to decide the site.

Rear Admiral Scott Is Killed

By JACK VINCENT
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Navy announced today that two more of its topflight officers—Rear Admiral Norman Scott of Indianapolis and Capt. Cassin Young of Coronado, Cal.—were killed in action during the "close range" battle against the Japanese off the Solomon Islands, where U. S. forces won a glorious victory.

Capt. Young was the commander of the flag ship of Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan's task force. Callaghan and Young steamed their anise striking force and obtained direct hits on an enemy battleship and other Japan surface units before the Japanese was shot out from under them.

U. S. Naval Victory Points To Expulsion Of Japs In Solomons

By RICHARD HALLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 17.—The overwhelming American naval victory in the Solomons solidified American positions on Guadalcanal and points to the eventual expulsion of the Japanese from the area, Admiral W. Nimitz declared today.

"I am sure the result means an immediate strengthening of our hold on Guadalcanal and eventual expulsion of the enemy from the island," said Admiral Nimitz.

Japs Frustrated

The Japanese effort to get reinforcements to its invasion force on Guadalcanal has been completely frustrated by the aggressive action of Vice Admiral W. F. Halsey and his forces in the south Pacific area, said an official communique from Admiral Nimitz's headquarters.

Admiral Nimitz added informally that "without beans and bullets" the enemy forces soon will find themselves in an uncomfortable position.

As in all previous engagements with the American naval forces, the Japanese withdrew without reaching their objective, and suffered far heavier losses than they were able to inflict on the defending forces.

The battle was fought to bring reinforcements to the Japanese troops on Guadalcanal, but the enemy transport fleet was "almost annihilated so that little if any" assistance reached the island, Admiral Nimitz's communique stated.

Battleships Cause Damage

Faith in our battleships was justified by the three-day running battle, the communique revealed. The big guns of our dreadnoughts inflicted heaviest damage on the enemy invasion fleet. The Japanese fear to risk their remaining air-

Balance Of Naval Power In

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Rout of Japan's south Pacific fleet under crippling blows by American warships and planes today left Nippon's garrisons on Guadalcanal and New Guinea isolated and temporarily exposed to fresh assaults by American and Australian land forces.

Destruction and damage of 18 more Jap warships and 12 other enemy vessels Nov. 13-15, added to Japan's cumulative losses beginning with the Coral Sea battle in May, increased the belief that the balance of naval power is shifting rapidly in favor of the expanding U. S. Pacific fleet.

Expect Further Blows

Further Jap sea counter-blows are expected in the Solomon area, but naval sources said that these would be governed by Japan's ability to replace quickly the 30 warships and transports sunk or damaged in the three-day sea-air battle off Guadalcanal.

Meanwhile, it was considered likely that American land forces on Guadalcanal would resume the of-

U. S. Flagship Sank Two Jap Ships

U. S. Commander Killed In Battle

Shell Struck Bridge Of Rear Admiral Callaghan's Flagship In Solomons Battle

CLOSE RANGE BATTLE WAGED BY FLEET

(International News Service) PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 17.—Rear Admiral Daniel H. Callaghan's flagship sank two enemy warships to the bottom and scored 18 hits on a battleship in the battle of the Solomons before 14-inch shells from a Japanese battleship hit the bridge of the American vessel and caused the admiral's death, it was revealed today.

Admiral Callaghan commanded the American task force that smashed a superior enemy fleet near Savo Island the night of November 13. The Japanese force included battleships, cruisers and destroyers were screening a large fleet of troop-laden transports, headed for Guadalcanal.

Flagship Hit They did not reach their goal. Admiral Callaghan ordered his force to close in and engage the Japanese warships. His cruiser-flagship shellied an enemy cruiser which blew up after a broadside of direct hits.

Then the doughty commander engaged an enemy battleship, moving within 2,000-yard range, and scored 18 hits with his heavy guns. Meantime the secondary batteries sank a Japanese destroyer.

Other vessels in his force had similar success and the beaten enemy fleet hastily withdrew. But during the battle an enemy battleship got the range of Admiral Callaghan's ship and several big shells tore into the bridge and superstructure of the cruiser. The admiral was among the victims.

On the previous day Admiral Callaghan's force escorted a fleet of American transports to the Solomons. A squadron of 21 enemy torpedo planes attacked the convoy and 20 were shot down by anti-aircraft fire from our warships and by navy fighter planes.

One enemy plane crashed into the superstructure of the flagship.

craft-carriers also was a big factor in the American victory. Whether the enemy was afraid to risk its carriers, or didn't have any, was uncertain. Naval observers believe that Japanese losses in the fighting in the Solomons on October 26 was far heavier than they have admitted.

It was a brilliant victory for Vice Admiral Halsey, who took over command of the Solomons campaign from Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghormley following the engagement which cost the allies four cruisers in a night battle off Savo Island.

First For Halsey The battle was the first major action since Admiral Halsey took command, and the Japanese warships were soundly whipped and sent running as they were at Midway and in the Coral Sea.

Naval strategists assumed that Admiral Halsey followed his usual tactics of "throwing the book away" and striking fast at the enemy fleet. And they also assumed that the air-minded admiral had used his carriers to full advantage.

Admiral Halsey, who is known as "Pudge," makes no bones of violating traditional rules of naval warfare. He invariably does the unexpected, and crosses up the textbook admirals of the opposing forces.

Accounts of the Solomons battle, which apparently was fought out in two night engagements, revealed that Admiral Halsey closed in with the Japanese fleet and slugged it out at close quarters. In previous actions the out-gunned American naval forces had fought hit-and-run battles with the superior enemy task forces.

Heaviest Thrust The Japanese thrust at Guadalcanal was the heaviest and most determined of their many efforts to oust the American forces from the Solomons. But the only transports to reach Guadalcanal island were the hulks of four transports which were destroyed and beached.

"By far the strongest Japanese attempt to date to recapture Guadalcanal has been completely frustrated by the aggressive action of Vice Admiral W. F. Halsey and his forces in the south Pacific area," said the communique from Admiral Nimitz's headquarters.

BRITISH FORCES KEEP UP CHASE AFTER ROMMEL (Continued From Page One) Gulf of Sidra through which the retreating Axis formations are streaking.

The aerial bombardment of the withdrawing German and Italian units was hampered somewhat because of poor flying weather although Allied planes went into the air where possible to interrupt the progress of the enemy withdrawal.

Rommel's troops and motorized forces were stretched out over a wide expanse of roadway extending southwest from Benghazi to Agheila and beyond, apparently making posthaste for Tripoli, 400 miles west of Agheila.

"Owing to bad flying conditions air activity was on a reduced scale," the communique said. "One Junker 88 was shot down at sea off Port Said. We lost one aircraft in these operations."

SECRETARY KNOX SAYS NAVY WILL BE READY FOR NEW JAP ATTACK

be round three." After hailing the American victory in "round two," Knox said. "The effect is that as after the first round, the victory leaves U. S. forces in complete possession of the area and undisputed possession of Guadalcanal airfield."

He added that the enemy losses were "very severe in both ships and personnel," bolstering unofficial reports that the Japanese casualties were at least 30,000 men.

In High Spirits The secretary obviously was in high spirits over the rout of powerful Japanese armadas which attempted to capture Guadalcanal over a three-day period beginning November 13.

The enemy forces were hurled back under crippling blows by American warships and airplanes which left 30 Japanese ships sunk or damaged.

Obviously referring to the retreat of Japanese forces from the battle area, Knox stated that "we have naval supremacy around Guadalcanal."

The secretary declined to be drawn into a discussion of the relative strengths of the Japanese and American Pacific fleets on the basis of Japanese losses.

He did point out, however, that "no doubt the process of attrition is operating against the Japanese, and that America is building combat ships much faster than Japan."

Japs Nearer Home "But remember the Japanese are operating in home and adjacent waters," the secretary added. "The Japanese have suffered severely but they are operating close to home while our navy is spread over the seven seas," Knox emphasized.

Asked how America's two ocean navy program is shaping up, Knox replied: "It is coming along beautifully. The speed of delivery of our combat ships is one of the most gratifying of the whole picture."

A newsman then asked the secretary if our warship building program has reached the proportions that would enable America to replace quickly the two light cruisers and six destroyers lost by U. S. forces in achieving the spectacular victory over Japan.

"Let me remind you that one shipyard launched four destroyers on Armistice day," Knox said. "The secretary said he could not speak in too high praise of the qualities of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Pacific forces in the Solomons and Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, who was killed in the Solomons battle."

Knox relayed a message from Maj. Gen. Alexander Vandegrift, Marine commander in charge of ground forces on Guadalcanal, in which the officer stated that American forces administered a "crushing" defeat to the Japanese invasion forces. Knox said that Vandegrift also paid high tribute to Admiral Callaghan, who led his task force "gallantly" and gave his life.

TOKYO, Nov. 17.—(By official Japanese wireless)—Vice Admirals Chuichi Nagumo and Yaeeko Takagi, who have just returned from the theatre of war, were received in audience by Emperor Hirohito today.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Sergeant Edward Jones of Donora, Pa., has been decorated with the Purple Heart for wounds he received in action. It was disclosed today at United States Army Air Force headquarters. The American flyer was wounded on Oct. 2 while at his post of tail gunner in a flying fortress when his plane was "somewhere over Europe."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The United States government today is understood to consider the situation in French north Africa as purely a military one in which French politics should play no part for the time being. With this view in mind, the state department is opposed to the establishment of any French refugee government in north Africa at the present time.

ALLIED PLANES MEANTIME continued their support of embattled American forces in the Solomons Islands. The headquarters communique said that American Flying Fortress bombers damaged a destroyer and a Jap transport in a new attack on the Buin-Fasi roadstead.

Closing In Rapidly Headquarters communique said that Allied troops were closing in rapidly on Buna from the south and west with the Japanese, driven from Wairopi, retreating steadily. "Our troops are rapidly advancing from both flanks," the communique said.

"The enemy is steadily retreating. Our air force attacked the enemy, incessantly throughout the day."

Australian troops moved in swift pursuit of Japanese forces attempting to escape up the Kumusi river.

The Allied onslaught was steadily pushing the Japs back toward the shore where landings were effected last July when the enemy launched an overland drive through the Owen Stanley mountain range in an attempt to seize the advanced Allied base of Port Moresby, 120 miles distant. The Allied counter-assault was begun after Jap patrols had penetrated to within 32 miles of the strategic Allied base.

Transfer of Gen. MacArthur's headquarters to New Guinea marked the first time he has actually gone into the field since he became commander of all Allied forces in the southwest Pacific although he has visited New Guinea on inspection tours.

The general last was in the field when he directed the American defense of the Philippines, leaving his headquarters in Manila to join his troops. His tactical maneuver is moving the majority of his forces into Batavia and to the island of Corregidor in the face of terrific odds was credited in long delaying the Japanese occupation of the Philippines and prevented them from moving swiftly into the southwest Pacific.

Allied planes meanwhile continued their support of embattled American forces in the Solomons Islands. The headquarters communique said that American Flying Fortress bombers damaged a destroyer and a Jap transport in a new attack on the Buin-Fasi roadstead.

JAP LOSSES ARE PROBABLY 30,000 IN NAVAL BATTLE

ensive operations that were interrupted by the recent crucial battle in which U. S. sea and air forces scored their greatest victory over the Japanese and smashed the enemy's latest attempt to retake the island.

On New Guinea, spectacular offensive developments were indicated by the disclosure that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had arrived in the area to direct the allied campaign to drive the Japs from Buna, their last beachhead in Papua.

The New Guinea offensive has been underway for weeks, with the Japanese position growing steadily worse while the enemy concentrated materials and men in an effort to drive the Americans from Guadalcanal.

Jap Air Force Weak Weakness of Japan's air force in the south Pacific was indicated by the fact that MacArthur's bombers have been able to play an important part in smashing Japanese ship concentrations which were heading toward Guadalcanal.

In Hawaii, Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander-in-chief of America's Pacific fleet, described the U. S. triumph as a "major victory" over the Japanese and he added that the enemy's most powerful attempt to retake Guadalcanal was "completely frustrated."

Clearly showing the plight of Japanese troops on Guadalcanal, Nimitz said that a force of Japanese transports that was heading for the island was "almost annihilated" and that all units of a huge enemy armada were "either destroyed or driven back."

The admiral said that the Japanese were able to get "little if any" reinforcements ashore on Guadalcanal and Maj. Gen. Alexander Vandegrift's forces were in complete control of the situation on the island.

Balance of Power Swings As a result of this and previous defeats, the balance of naval power was believed in official circles to be swinging definitely in favor of America's Pacific fleet, but navy men warned that the Japs still have reserve units and are expected to renew their fight for the Solomons.

The latest Solomons battle was the greatest ever fought by combined American naval-air forces, exceeding in scope and ferocity even the famous Midway battle, which actually was a duel between carrier task forces and land-based planes.

With the final score incomplete, the Japanese armadas which attempted to execute a sea-borne pincer movement for another attempt to recapture Guadalcanal were sent reeling back with the following losses:

Jap Losses Likely 30,000 One battleship, three heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, five destroyers ers and eight transports sunk and four cargo transports destroyed, plus one battleship and six destroyers damaged. Japanese personnel losses were estimated unofficially at 30,000.

In contrast, American losses were two light cruisers and six destroyers. American personnel losses were said to be relatively light, presumably because the action took place near Guadalcanal and survivors were rescued quickly.

In the Midway battle, Jap losses were four carriers, two cruisers, three destroyers and one transport sunk, and three battleships, four cruisers, three destroyers and three transports damaged, plus an estimated 4,800 Japs killed or drowned. In that action the U. S. lost the carrier Yorktown and one destroyer.

The Solomons battle gave the American navy its first opportunity to list an enemy battleship sunk. Previously only Capt. Colin Kelly of the U. S. army was credited with sinking or probably sinking a Jap battleship early in the Philippine campaign.

Give MacArthur Credit Most of the credit for the American victory was given officially and unofficially to U. S. army bombers from the command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia.

On the night of Nov. 13, a powerful Jap force of two battleships and 16 other warships split in three columns to blast American positions on Guadalcanal in preparation for an invasion the following day.

As they approached the bombardment area they were engaged by units of our fleet and the ensuing battle was fought at close range," the navy communique said.

GRASS FIRE Three fire companies were called to the district between Locust and Canyon street and the Erie railroad tracks. Monday afternoon, where a large grass fire was raging. They finally extinguished the blaze after considerable work.

DR. WALTER REED HOVEY WOMAN'S CLUB SPEAKER

Dr. Walter Reed Hovey, head of the Fine Arts of the University of Pittsburgh, was speaker at the bi-monthly meeting of Woman's Club on Monday afternoon, when they met in Highland United Presbyterian church.

Dr. Hovey, who spoke on "Impressions of American Art" is a speaker of prominence. Thoroughly versed on his subject, he traced the evolution of American art, beginning with style revivals to the 16th and 17th centuries. He told of our early art being closely related to European art, and how we are just emerging from a period of revivals which will make America a leader of a great national movement. He cited many other interesting phases concerning American art.

Mrs. John Elliott presided in the absence of Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser, and announced that to date, the Woman's Club together with the local chapter of the American Red Cross, has sold the amount of $36,112.75 worth of bonds, and that their goal is $50,000 by the first of the year.

Mrs. J. Clyde Gillfillan presented Mrs. W. P. Felch, contralto soloist of the First Methodist church, who delighted with two selections as an additional feature on the days program. She chose for her numbers "Love Is The Wind" and "Long, Long Ago," with Mrs. Katherine Nessie Allen, accompanist.

In opening the meeting, "America" was sung in unison.

Mrs. John Dittmer and Mrs. Robert A. Eckles were co-hostesses in charge.

Record NEWS
by Elisabeth Fleming
The weird accompaniment of drums, the exact rhythm of trumpet and piano, is heard in "The Mooche," a Duke Ellington composition. Sidney Bechet and His Feetwarmers make a fine slow blues number of this—a hot jazz classic.
Rather unknown bands are hitting the high spots in recordings because of the sentiment behind the song. We quote "There's Star Spangled Banner Waving" and "Der Fuehrer's Face." To these two we add "You Can't Win A War Without The Irish." This is a rollicking tune sung by Jimmy Shields. We're spotting this one among the popular releases. Of interest to New Castle friends is the fact that the "music was written by Wallace Garland, who has visited frequently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Garland, 201 Edgewood Ave.
Music is inspiring.

"Jukebox Saturday Night" by Glenn Miller is tearing ahead. It's backed by a "Sleepy Town Train" with a rhythm a la "In The Mood."
"French Opera Arias" sung by Gladys Swarthout, brings two records of songs done previously but never so well as now. Miss Swarthout is at her best—the unusual color of her voice, the astounding vibrant range are shown in these fine waxings.

Rear Admiral Dies In Battle

Navy Announces Rear Admiral
Callaghan Killed In Pacific Engagement

PRESIDENT'S AIDE
FOR THREE YEARS

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The navy announced late Monday that Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, former naval aide to President Roosevelt, was killed in one of the engagements which began in the south Pacific with powerful Japanese forces six days ago.

A native of San Francisco, the admiral was one of the navy's outstanding gunnery experts and was in charge of a task force in the Guadalcanal area when he was killed in action.

The navy gave no details on the admiral's death, but a spokesman said that he died in action while aboard his flagship as commander of a task force which had been opposing powerful Japanese units seeking to recapture Guadalcanal.

52 Years of Age
Callaghan, who was 52 years old, was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1907 and following graduation was assigned to the U. S. S. California. He served in the first Nicaraguan campaign.

Callaghan was the third admiral killed since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. Rear Admiral Isaac C. Kidd was killed during the Pearl Harbor attack, and Rear Admiral John W. Wilcox was listed as lost at sea.

The admiral had various commands at sea and on shore during the period from 1918 to 1933.

From 1933 until 1936 he was executive officer of the naval ROTC unit at the University of California and then became officer on the staff of commander of cruisers in the scouting force until 1938.

Naval Aide to President
The admiral was naval aide to the president from July 14, 1939, until April, 1941, when he assumed command of the cruiser San Francisco.

During the early months of the year, Callaghan served as chief of staff of the commander, U. S. naval forces in the south Pacific and within the past few weeks was given a command at sea as leader of a task force.

On June 15, 1942, he was nominated for promotion to the grade of rear admiral and was confirmed by the senate on June 22.

His home address is listed as 6100 San Pablo avenue, Oakland, Cal.

Public Will Decide Best Floral Exhibit During Farm Show

Downtown Store Windows Will Invite All To Pick
Favorite

Nine downtown store windows will carry Thanksgiving holiday floral displays arranged by nine different district garden clubs during the November 19, 20 and 21 run of the first annual Lawrence County Farm Products show at the Lawrence Auto Sales Co. showrooms.

Sponsored by the Walmo Garden club, the nine displays will be competitive, according to Mrs. Harold R. McCulloch. The public will choose the best by ballots to be deposited in ballot receptacles at the New Castle store, Strouss-Hirschberg's and at the farm show.

Walmo club members will sponsor individual exhibits in other windows. These are not to be included in the judging of the nine.

Arranging the nine competitive displays will be the East Brook, East Side, Edenburg, Mahoning Valley, Harbor, Lawrence County, Mahoning, North Beaver, Oakwood and Men's Garden clubs.

Daylight Drill

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—Satisfaction with the way people wholeheartedly cooperated during the state's second daylight air raid test was expressed on Monday by Dr. A. C. Maris, executive director of the state defense council.

"Reports from six of the eight regional representatives of the state council of defense indicate that the citizens defense corps was mobilized very promptly and fully and that control centers without exception went into action," said the defense head. "The response of the people in getting off the streets and obeying the instructions of air raid wardens was almost instantaneous."

The air raid alert, the first statewide test to be held in the morning, lasted one-half hour, beginning at 10:20 a. m. It will be followed later this month by a one-half hour blackout.

Maris said the test disclosed two weaknesses in the state's defense organization which will have to be eliminated. He listed them as (1) "In some cities and communities there are not yet enough clearly-marked air raid shelters to accommodate the number of people normally on the streets in the daytime" and (2) "In many places some people still could not hear the sirens (and) in some cities the audible alarm is insufficient particularly in the winter months when windows are closed."

As a result of the lack of sufficient air raid shelters, "Too many citizens still had to stand in the street alongside buildings," said Maris. "That is far from safe. Our councils of defense that have not yet established sufficient shelters should do so without delay."

HAD RIGHT IDEA BUT WRONG WORD

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—A young woman casually sauntered into the deserted streets of the state capital Monday, unaware that a daylight air raid test was in progress.

A policeman's shrill whistle sounded. The woman stopped in her tracks, glanced hurriedly about and dashed for the nearest air raid shelter, shouting:

"Oh, it's a blackout."

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—For the first time during the past four years the Public Utility Commission has allowed political differences to flare into the open. Democratic Commissioner Thomas C. Buchanan sent a telegram to Democratic leaders on the eve of a campaign rally and contended that the Republican majority would return a decision raising rates two and a half cents per 1,000 cubic feet for customers of the Peoples Natural Gas Co. of Pittsburgh.

What caused the ill-feeling was the assertion that Buchanan broke a rule by disclosing the contents of a "report" that may or may not be adopted as a final order, prior to the time the full commission discussed it in executive session.

Chairman John Higgins, Jr., who rebuffed Buchanan publicly, challenged the minority member's statement. He pointed out that while rates may increase two and a half cents over the 1939 level, the tariffs will be below what consumers pay now. In fact, the commission is expected to order the utility to re-

Martin has indicated that one reason for retention of some of the cabinet members is the shortage of cabinet timber to replace the present group. . . . Such a shortage, naturally, is a result of the war which has absorbed capable executives into war industries where their services are desperately needed.

Secretary of Highways I. Lamont Hughes will accept reappointment if Martin offers him the position, but will not ask the governor-elect for the $12,000-a-year post. Hughes established a business-like administration in the highway department and dismissed scores of employees whom he considered "deadwood." of Public Assistance Howard L. Russell has stated he does not desire a reappointment. . . . Superintendent of Public Instruction Frances B. Haas is appointed under the state constitution and cannot be removed until August 1943.

Kenneth Kressler, of Easton, primary campaign manager for Sen. James J. Davis, emphatically denies that he will accept the post of insurance commissioner if Martin tenders him the $10,000-a-year job. . . . Kressler points out that his insurance business nets more than that and he would lose money if he accepted the offer because his business would disappear. . . . Secretary of Property and Supplies James P. Torrance is expected to be renominated and organization leaders say he will serve until next April when he will be appointed to the Public Utility Commission to fill a vacancy created when Commissioner Richard J. Beamish automatically retires.

Daring Naval War Marked Victory Of U.S. Pacific Fleet

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIG
Written Especially for International
News Service

Unbelievably daring and unconventional naval war marked the victory of Vice Admiral W. F. Halsey's fleet of the Solomons.

Admiral Halsey has been known all through his career as a sea-fighter who would tear up all the rule-books of accepted strategy and fight any battle at sea or on the war-game board in his own way.

He certainly did in planning the series of naval actions that resulted in America's great victory and which put a halt to Japan's greatest and latest effort to retake Guadalcanal.

In the game of naval war that was played since a week ago yesterday over a chess-board about the size of the United States east of the Ohio river, the U. S. navy's "cruiser men" played a sensational part. Cruiser men in the world's fleets are officers who have a special affection for the fast, sleek modern successors to America's famous frigates of the Constitution's days.

Cruiser Value
The cruiser, according to its advocates, can run and if necessary can slug. It is as a leader of task forces composed primarily of cruisers, supplemented by aircraft carriers, that Admiral Halsey has achieved his principal successes of the present war.

Another of the navy's cruiser men, was Admiral Daniel H. Callaghan, killed on the bridge of his ship while leading a cruiser task force in a blazing duel with a Japanese force comprising at least one battleship.

A detail of the navy department announcement which states that a Japanese plane crashed on Admiral Callaghan's ship, renders it probable that he was in command of the heavy cruiser San Francisco, which was described last week as having suffered casualties when a Japanese aviator hurled his plane on her decks.

Admiral Callaghan was killed on his flagship bridge in action. His death, pushing the vessels of his tin-clad fleet ever closer to their heavier Japanese opponents in the flame-stabbed darkness of a night sea battle, serves as an inspiring reminder to his messmates and his countrymen of the kind of offensive action the U. S. navy stands for.

Japan
According to information that can be gleaned from necessarily meagre announcements, the fighting in the seas surrounding the Solomons took the form of a two-pronged Japanese offensive, designed to sweep back American naval forces that were protecting Guadalcanal and land overhauling detachments of the mikado's army there.

One of the prongs, comprising the enemy's principal fighting ships, approached from the northeast, while the second, escorting a fleet of 12 transports, swung down from the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Guinea, approximately 500 miles northwest.

Apparently the Japanese admiral planned to draw off the principal strength of American warships to meet the threat of his approaching battle squadrons in a strafe that would end in a nipponese naval victory, or at least in a long drawn-out indecisive skirmish that would permit the mikado's transports to land their men unmolested on Guadalcanal.

The speed and decisiveness of Admiral Halsey's actions splashed that plan. On two nights, apparently Nov. 12 and 13, Halsey drove his squadrons straight at the Japanese column. Night action is the trickiest form of naval war. Ships may approach unnoticed as within point-blank range and whole divisions may be sunk in a few minutes.

In night sea war, airpower avails little. Principal blows were struck by cruisers and superdreadnaughts. Admiral Callaghan's cruiser force is described as going into action at 2,000 yards, point-blank range. The 850-pound shells of a heavy cruiser's 8-inch guns at such a distance would cut through any but the heaviest dreadnaught armor.

These night slugging matches ended with one Japanese battleship and five cruisers sunk and many other fighting ships damaged. Meanwhile, American air power, turned loose on the fleet of 12 nipponese transports advancing toward Guadalcanal, destroyed them all.

Statements and opinions herein are private to the writer and are not to be construed as reflecting the views of the navy department.

PA NEW OBSERVES

er followed the first wintry squalls to warn the lazy Indians to complete their harvest before winter set in, in earnest. At any rate, local folks are glad to see the fine weather which followed winter's first blast last week.

Dorris L. Fulkman of the Lawrence County Agricultural Conservation Association recently wrote to the U. S. Department of Agriculture inquiring into the story which has been going the rounds in Lawrence county to the effect that the government has been paying Colorado farmers to plow under sugar beets. The answer stated that there is no truth whatever to the rumor, but that on the contrary, Colorado farmers increased their acreage from 135,000 to 195,000 acres. The harvest is expected to yield 2,533,000 tons against 1,949,000 tons last year. Approximately 12,000 acres were abandoned because of weather hazards, and labor shortage, leaving a net gain of 48,000 acres.

Just how much the home town paper means to the boys in service is expressed by Pvt. John D. Harlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Harlan, of Edgewood avenue, who is now stationed at Keesler Field, Miss., with the U. S. Air Corps. He says that the boys are more or less homesick and "The News" does as much to cheer them up as a letter, and that the boys look forward to its arrival with great expectancy. He says the parents of all the men in the army and navy should realize this, as the men get more out of The News than they can out of a letter, because it contains all the news, not that they don't welcome letters too. With him at Keesler Field are Ed. Pritchard, Bob Maher and Jim Flynn, also of this city.

RUSSIAN FORCES HOLD POSITIONS AGAINST NAZIS

Timoshenko's army northwest of the city moved slowly ahead after consolidating positions won in recent fighting.

Heavy fighting was reported from the Nalchik sector of the central Caucasus, but the enemy was unable to make any progress.

Nazi Tanker Sunk
The midnight communiqué also reported the sinking of an 8,000-ton German tanker in the Barents Bay. While the German high command was reported to be making careful preparations for the winter campaign, the Moscow radio promised "The severest winter the German army has experienced—but not on account of the weather."

This prediction was based on the weakening of German forces to meet Allied threats in the Mediterranean as a result of the North African victories. The weather, the Moscow radio pointed out, had nothing to do with the Axis reverses in Africa.

The Red Army's preparations for the winter campaign are not counted on the Germans being unprepared for weather conditions as they were last year. Reports reaching Moscow say the enemy has prepared well for sub-zero temperatures. Snow plows to clear airfield runways, and special machines to warm up airplane engines have been installed on all fields near the front lines, it was said.

But, military observers said, the Germans will be unable to do much about the roads, which will chain down their mechanized equipment this winter as they did last winter. The confident prediction that the coming winter will be the worst in Germany's history was believed to be based on Soviet offensive plans. In some quarters the Soviet thrust on the Volkhov sector was believed to mark the beginning of a drive to push the enemy back from the threshold of Leningrad.

"American flyers dropped 90,000 tons of bombs on Germany in September." Bombs enough to have wrecked Japanese industry.

ALLIED FORCES PUSH FARTHER INTO TUNISIA

Nazis admitted that the British were shooting up the El Aouina airdrome near Tunis but asserted that their landings of reinforcements continue.

Reports premature
Reports broadcast by the Morocco radio of fighting between Axis and American and British forces were termed premature.

Royal Air Force planes based on the tiny island of Malta, 200 miles from the Tunisia battlefront, again heavily raided Axis positions at Bizerte and the airdromes at Tunis.

The German's Paris radio, according to the London Star, said that the Tunis airdrome was under "constant attack" by Allied planes raiding the field from low level.

"For the last two days violent air combat has been taking place at the airdrome on the outskirts of Tunis between Axis and Allies planes," the Vichy radio said.

Believe Axis Has 10,000
Reports reaching Allied headquarters said that the Germans and Italians were steadily increasing their strength in Tunisia by sending in reinforcements by air and sea. The number of Axis troops in the French protectorate according to recent estimates total 10,000.

Headquarters in Africa heard that as the French in Tunisia learned that the Germans were coming into the protectorate in force they scuttled ships in the harbors to prevent their use by the Nazis. All movable defenses such as anti-aircraft guns were removed along with all transport gasoline which would prove of value to the enemy.

It was learned that the United States consul at Tunis remained in the capital after its occupation by the Germans but subsequently escaped.

Await Americans
The French population in Tunisia was said to be eagerly awaiting the arrival of the Allied forces, especially the Americans. The Italian populace, reportedly agitated and worried, is incapable of resistance.

Observers of the shaping campaign in Tunisia believe that the Axis' principal hope there is to hold the ports only for the time being to enable the shattered Axis forces from Egypt and Libya to escape from North Africa.

At Oran in Algiers another unit of French troops joined United States forces. Clearance and maintenance of all ports and harbors in the North African areas which capitulated was said to be proceeding swiftly.

Refute Battle Reports
Axis assertions that a naval battle was in progress off Africa's north coast was refuted by the announcement that the British navy maintained control of the western Mediterranean and its approaches.

Rome claimed today that heavily damaged Allied merchant ships and war vessels were "constantly entering Gibraltar."

The London Daily Express in an undated story today said that British and American troops were reported fighting a fierce battle with the Germans near Tunis, but there was no official confirmation of the report.

Broadcasts by the Morocco radio still under French operation in accordance with an agreement with American authorities, previously had reported that Allied units were battling the Germans near Bizerte. It was this report which Allied headquarters termed premature.

The Algiers radio, however, said that a French guards battalion had forced a German reconnaissance group to beat a hurried retreat.

WAR WORK FUND CAMPAIGN WILL OPEN AT DINNER

be the speaker tonight at the opening dinner and few there are more qualified to speak upon such a subject. For fifteen years he has headed the Youngstown Community Chest and has done an outstanding job.

This year's drive for money takes on a new importance. Not alone are citizens helping the local charitable organizations, but they are aiding a magnificent job in maintaining morale among the armed forces, and feeding the hungry peoples of the world. This year's drive is a "Must."

Two contributions have already come into the drive headquarters. The Lawrence County chapter of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association kicked in $50 Monday night at their meeting in The Castle. The New Castle Victory Girls, a high school group of 15 girls, sponsored by Mrs. L. C. Mantz and headed by Miss Phyllis Burdette have contributed $10. These are but the beginnings of a flood of contributions that should sweep over the $90,000 top that has been set.

Following the address of tonight, the workers will be assigned cards and the campaign will be on. Tentatively the campaign is set for ten days, an average of $9000 per day. Actually, it should be put over in a week or less.

After all the need is there, the amount has been set, why waste days and nights stringing the job out, seems to be the idea of most of the workers.

Poison Hemlock Is Herb, Not Tree

Socrates' Fatal Brew Made From Plant Resembling Our Wild Carrot

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—The department is in receipt of a great many inquiries as to whether or not hemlock, "The State Tree of Pennsylvania," is poisonous. W. E. Montgomery, chief of the division of management, department of forests and waters, states that the Athenian philosopher Socrates, who drank a brew of hemlock did not drink the sap from a hemlock tree, but the fatal potion of a herb related to our wild carrot. Poison hemlock is a biennial, a native of Europe and Asia, which has escaped into Eastern North America. The finely cut, dark foliage is highly ornamental.

Honorable Charles F. Jenkins, states that the poison hemlock, the ancient Anglo-Saxon form of the name was hymblice and it was later written in Old English as hemlock, humlock, homeloke and homelock. Its name is from haem or healm, meaning the dry, hollow stalks of the plant which remain after flowering and leaf, meaning plant.

Poison hemlock is associated in no way with ground hemlock which is a low shrubby plant, produces an aromatic scarlet berry, and has needles closely resembling those of the hemlock tree. It is actually a yew. Although the ground hemlock is common in Pennsylvania, and often grows in association with the hemlock tree, it can readily be distinguished from the state tree.

The hemlock tree bears a cone about one-half inch long, while the ground hemlock or yew, has a small scarlet berry. The hemlock tree attains a height of eighty feet while the yew rarely exceeds four feet. The hemlock tree has needles upon the under side of which are two white parallel lines; the needles of the yew are slightly larger and does not have these white lines.

It is unfortunate that this name is used in connection with a number of entirely unrelated species thereby causing considerable confusion among those not technically trained in botany and kindred subjects.

Sportsmen Should Guard State Trees

Shooting Bullets Or Driving Spikes Into Trees Can Have Dangerous Results

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—The state forests of Pennsylvania containing more than one and one-half million acres are wide open for sportsmen and hunters generally, but the rules regulating their use must be obeyed. Deliberately using living trees as targets by discharging bullets into their trunks is a violation of the state forest rules.

Another form of abuse injurious to timber trees and dangerous to human life, cited by Secretary G. Albert Stewart of the Department of Forests and Waters, is that of driving spikes and bolts into trees in order that persons may climb up to observe game animals, especially deer.

State forest rangers report that in time the woody growth of the trees covers these spikes and bolts. Later when the trees are felled and taken to the sawmills serious accidents are liable to result from swiftly running saws striking the embedded iron.

Circular saws in a modern sawmill may operate at speeds as high as 10,000 feet per minute, rim travel. The centrifugal force and tension of these thin saws are very great, and upon striking an object, such as a spike or steel bolt in the wood, they may break into pieces with considerable risk to the operators. The thoughtless hunter who shoots into a young sapling merely for the purpose of target practice may be the cause many years later of the death of an individual.

A great majority of the hunters, realizing their sport depends upon the forests, are as careful to protect the woods as the state forest officers. Sportsmen are anxious to break up any practice that tends to injure trees and the department is grateful for this helpful co-operation.

be an entirely different sort of normalcy from anything we've known hitherto.

They don't profess to know exactly what it'll resemble.

They don't profess to know how folk will like it or not, either.

The next generation will adapt itself. To that epoch it'll seem natural, if not satisfactory.

We few left-overs may consider it pretty tiresome.

There can't be any genuine, general, permanent improvement, though.

God wouldn't have permitted things to have fussed along as they have, up to date, if he'd intended otherwise.

This doubtless is a good thing, somehow.

It certainly wouldn't have been allowed to string out, as it has hitherto, if infinity had deemed it undesirable.

Optimistic On Post-War U. S.

Horrocks Sees Greater America Developing As Result Of War

AKRON MAN HEARD AT TRUCKERS DINNER

Those pessimistic souls who profess to see nothing but lead gray clouds in the postwar skies over America would have profited in hearing Arthur C. Horrocks, of Akron, O., Monday night in The Castleton hotel. Mr. Horrocks was the speaker at the dinner-meeting of the Lawrence County chapter of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association and spoke on "Roads to Adventure in a New World."

As a piece of speaking Mr. Horrocks' address was a deft bit of work. As a prophecy for the future it was optimistic and challenging. Out of this war, he predicted, will come a greater America, less dependent upon other nations for its articles of use and wear, an America strong and virile, ready for the international leadership that must be taken.

Synthetics and Plastics

"When the Japs took over the source of supply of most of the world's rubber, they did hamper us for a time in crude rubber for automobile tires," said Mr. Horrocks. "But out of that need is coming synthetic rubber that in many cases will be stronger and better than the natural. And remember this, when the Japs are finally driven out of the East Indies they will undoubtedly adopt the scorched earth policy, and destroy the rubber trees. That means that we will be using synthetic rubber here for at least eight years, but it is going to be good synthetic rubber."

"The wizardry of the scientists is a constant amazement," said Mr. Horrocks. "When Hitler needs something he puts a gun at the stomach of a neighbor and steals it. We need something in the United States, somebody whispers in the ear of our scientists and out of the House of Magic comes the answer. It's happening today, and the road to adventure is open to America."

Mr. Horrocks' address was a heartening one. His was not a Pollyanna address of sweetness and light but an optimistic picture of what is happening today in America and what will happen after the war.

Crowd Delighted

The measure of his success in speaking to the men at the truck dinner was seen in the tremendous ovation given him as he finished. About 175 were present, among them many guests who wanted to hear the word painter from Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

The dinner was the monthly affair of the association but more than the usual crowd was attracted. At the beginning of the dinner it was announced that the association was contributing to the United War Fund Drive a check for $50. This is the association's contribution, and has nothing to do with the personal contributions of the members. The check was presented to Paul W. Dingledy, one of the officers of the drive.

President J. Fred Clarke was in charge of the dinner and opened by welcoming the guests. Special guests present included B. N. Hanlon, manager of the New Castle Motor Club, Emil Schwad and F. W. Howard of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Frank Salvatore, president of the Allegheny County chapter of the P. M. T. A. H. G. Boyd, district manager of the Office of Defense Transportation in Youngstown, O., Ralph Coldin, assistant district manager, Paul W. Keely, manager of the Pittsburgh office of the O. D. T. Penn State Extension Service Will Register Girls November 23

Women over 18 may register at Senior high school Monday, November 23, between 7 and 10 p. m. for the New Pennsylvania State College Extension Service course, "Manufacturing Procedures for Women."

Sydney B. Cleat, new administrative head of the New Castle center of the service, said the new class will train women for immediate employment as production clerks, supervisors, and inspectors for war industries, or "upgrade" women now employed in such industries.

ELMER'S pop-eyed surprise is perfectly natural. Twins! An unexpected double order of happiness from heaven!

A lot of other folks are being pleasantly surprised these days to discover that they're getting a double order of electric service, too.

Actually, the average American home enjoys twice as much electricity for its money as it did 10 to 15 years ago. Perhaps you haven't realized this in your own home because you kept adding new appliances and using more electricity all the time the rates were coming down.

But that's the kind of bargain in which America leads the world. It is made possible by the experienced men and women of your electric company—and by practical business management under public regulation.

This is the American system of free enterprise at work. This is a prime part of what we're fighting for today. It has lifted power production and munitions production to tremendous heights. It will help win the war and enrich the peace.

Service Schedule For Thanksgiving Announced Monday

Ministerial Association Hears
Address By Rev. J. Calvin
Rose At Meeting

A schedule of Thanksgiving services was announced when members of the New Castle Ministerial Association held their meeting Monday morning in the First Presbyterian church.

North Hill services are to be held in the First United Presbyterian church with Dr. D. L. Ferguson of Highland church preaching; East Side services will be in Epworth church with Rev. Clarence R. Thayer of the Third U. P. church preaching; Dr. Burr R. McKnight of the First Methodist church will preach the downtown sermon in the First Baptist church; services for the South Side will be in Central Christian church and Rev. Charles J. Burton of St. Andrew's Episcopal church will be the preacher; Mahoningtown services will be in the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church and Rev. W. A. Bugbee of Mahoningtown Methodist church will speak.

The president, Dr. D. L. Ferguson, presided over yesterday's meeting which opened with prayer by Rev. T. C. Henderson. Rev. Sidney K. Bliss was appointed to act as secretary in the absence of Rev. R. B. Withers.

Dr. G. S. Bennett presented Mrs. Helen Swisher Vandereau who spoke on behalf of the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Association and their Christmas Seal drive. After Mr. Bliss told of the work of the Neighborhood House, Rev. Charles J. Burton, who is leaving soon for Buffalo, N. Y., spoke of his appreciation to the ministers for their good spirit toward him while ministering here.

Rev. J. Calvin Rose was then introduced by Mr. Bliss of the program committee. Mr. Rose told about the work of the U. S. O. and of moral issues in our armed forces. His address was well received by the group.

The meeting closed with the benediction by Dr. Burr R. McKnight.

At the next meeting on Monday morning, November 30, Miss Alice Sterling of the New Castle Free Public Library will review new books.

Students Confer On Post-War Problems

Westminster Holds Three-Day
Conference This Week;
New Castle Boy
Chairman

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 17.—Problems of post-war reconstruction will be studied by Westminster college students this week at a three-day "War and Peace Aims" conference to be held here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, November 18, 19, and 20.

Sponsored by the student body under the chairmanship of Don Kidd, Bellevue senior, the conference will begin in the college chapel at 7:30 Wednesday evening with a keynote speech by Dean Maxwell R. Kelsa. Following the opening address, the student body will be divided into three groups, which will deal with the political, economic and social aspects of post-war reconstruction.

Each committee will draw up a separate bill of war aims to be presented to the assembled group at the Thursday evening meeting. Co-chairman for the three groups are: Social, Joseph McCreary, Poland, Ohio; and Marion Hendrickson, of Youngstown; Economic, Donald McCrae, Cheswick; and George Hawbaker, Sewickley; Political, Norman Russell, Kansas City; and Elisabeth Rotzler, Pittsburgh.

A complete plan for post-war reconstruction will be drawn up after the individual reports are presented and discussed by the student body. Chairman of the Thursday assembly will be Meritt Reynolds, New Castle, International Relations Club president.

Climaxing the conference will be an address Friday evening by Prof. Russell Weisman, head of the department of economics and business administration at Western Reserve university, who will talk on "Post-War Objectives."

Professor Weisman is a member of the Western Reserve Round-Table Discussion group, regularly heard over a Cleveland station, and is also a financial columnist on the "Cleveland Plain Dealer."

The completed program for "War and Peace Aims," as drawn up by Westminster students at the conference, will be read as the close of Professor Weisman's lecture Friday.

Surprise Test Blackout Will Soon Be Ordered

State Officials Are Pleased
With Observance Of Yesterday's Daylight Test

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—Pennsylvanians today awaited a surprise blackout test which will be held later this month following conclusion of yesterday's daylight alert.

The blackout, the sixth of statewide scope, will probably be of one-half hour duration, the same as yesterday's daylight test, Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, executive director of the State Defense Council, indicated.

Marts expressed satisfaction with the way people wholeheartedly cooperated yesterday during the state's second daylight air raid test, the first to be held in the morning. He added, however, that too many people stood in the street alongside buildings because of insufficient air raid shelters. He urged local defense councils to remedy this "without delay."

Another weakness shown by the test, which began at 10:20 a. m., was the failure of the air raid sirens to reach the ears of everyone, said Marts. "In many places some people still could not hear the sirens (and) in some cities the audible alarm is insufficient, particularly in the winter months when windows are closed," he asserted.

The defense head expressed pleasure, however, over the way people cooperated. Reports from regional representatives of the State Defense Council indicated, he asserted, "that the Citizens Defense Corps was mobilized very promptly and fully and that control centers without exception went into action. The response of the people in getting off the streets and obeying the instructions of air raid wardens was almost instantaneous."

Future Farmers' Chapters Take
Role In Farm Show
This Week

Two chapters of the Future Farmers of America—East Brook and New Wilmington—will sponsor displays at the first annual Lawrence County Farm Products show in the Lawrence Auto Sales Co. showrooms, South Mercer street, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

East Brook, under its adviser, Murry McMunkin of East Brook R. D. 5, plans an attractive chart exhibit on egg quality. It will plainly inform show visitors the contents of an egg, and distinguish between the grades.

Fitting in war times is the New Wilmington chapter display—a "Home Storage of Vegetables" for victory gardens. New Wilmington's organization has J. Bumgardner, New Wilmington, for its adviser.

William Fox Is Beginning Term

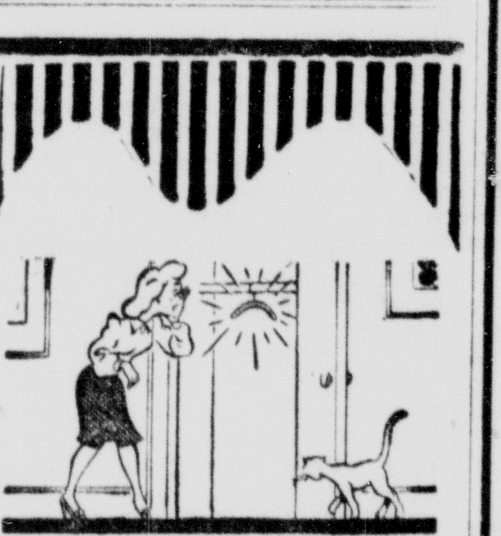

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—William Fox, former millionaire movie magnate, today began serving the year and a day sentence imposed on him for conspiracy to obstruct justice in a bankruptcy case.

The former movie mogul, who pleaded guilty to "loaning" $27,000 to former Federal Circuit Court Judge J. Warren Davis while the latter was considering a number of important phases of Fox's bankruptcy case, surrendered at Moyamensing prison. He will probably be taken to the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., Wednesday, officials said. His imprisonment had been delayed since October 21 because of business he had been transacting with the U. S. Army Signal Corps. He was also fined $3,000.

BURMA ROAD - American Style

A thin line of dirt and gravel winding through the mountains stymied the Japanese army for four years!

China called it the Burma Road. Every time Jap airmen gave it a pasting, the women, children, and old men of China patched it together again—often with their bare hands.

They knew that as long as they could keep it open their men at the front would have guns and ammunition to fight with.

America, too, has a "Burma Road"—not one which has been patched together by hand, but a 236,000-mile modern streamlined railroad system that knits together the 48 states and links the railroads of Canada, Mexico, and Central America. Over this lifeline of ours men, materials, supplies, and munitions are today rolling swiftly to war.

The railroads' two years' increase in freight traffic (mid-1942 compared with pre-war mid-1940) was 79% and in passenger traffic 106%. In the last nine months alone, the Erie and other American railroads carried 8,000,000 service men to their military destinations.

The significance to you of this amazing achievement is that it proves America has a weapon the Axis can't match—a system of rail transportation capable of provisioning our people at home, supplying our troops in the field, furnishing transportation for lend-lease supplies, and shifting our forces from one strategic point to another. It's a system which will be ready and waiting to take on the peacetime job of helping to rebuild the world.

Urge Courses In Social Hygiene

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Courses in biology and social hygiene to combat an increase in illegitimate births among teen-age girls was advocated for Philadelphia high schools today by the newly organized public committee on social hygiene.

Dr. Ruth Hartley Weaver, assistant director of health, said the request sprang from a recent survey which showed that "where 20 was once the average age of the sexually delinquent girl, the age today has dropped to 13 or 14."

Hitler was right. He said winter in Russia wouldn't hurt the Germans so much this time, and thousands are going to a hotter place every day.

BLOOD TO BE ASKED OF STATE EMPLOYEES

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—All state employees will be solicited for blood donations, the state department of health disclosed today.

Secretary of Health A. H. Stewart urged every state employee in good health to contribute a pint of blood. "A pint of blood is a small sacrifice to make compared to what the men in our fighting forces are giving," he asserted.

Farm Labor Wages Rise; Wet Weather Decreases Pea Crop

By WILLIAM BROCKMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—The old law of supply and demand is now influencing farm labor rates. As the supply of workers for Pennsylvania farms becomes less than half of normal and the demand for labor grows, most farmers find themselves paying greater wages than ever before. Within the past year, monthly wages, with board, have advanced from $34.75 to $41.75, while the monthly rate without board has increased from $51.25 to $65. The supply and demand situation is critical in all sections of the state and is aggravated in areas where defense plants are located.

Pennsylvania's pea crop is the latest victim of 1942's unusually wet weather. Although the acreage planted to peas for canning was far below last year, this reduction, the department of Agriculture reported, came from decreased yields due largely to weather conditions. Latest estimates place the 1942 crop at 10,275 tons, or 1470 pounds per acre.

Continuing its war against Bang's disease, the Bureau of Animal Industry last month tested 33,768 cattle in 1,183 herds. Of the total number tested, 3.3 per cent, or 1,139 cattle representing 464 herds, was infected. The herd infection rate, the bureau announced, was 21.2 per cent. During the month indemnities paid by the state for condemned cattle totaled $43,162 in addition to federal indemnities of $33,933.

Higher wages and longer hours are enabling workingmen's families to purchase food for the smallest share of family income since 1913. According to a recent survey made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture based on national averages, the food budget was about 22 per cent of the non-farm family's income. "Average family income has been rising more rapidly than food prices during the past three years and throughout the first nine months of 1942, due to higher wage rates, more hours of work per week with overtime payments and more persons employed," Secretary of Agriculture John H. Light declared. Farm prices rose 21 per cent during September, while family income was 57 per cent above average and the retail cost of food was up only 26 per cent, he added.

A total of 178,000 bushels of wheat was purchased during October to be fed to livestock and poultry in Pennsylvania. According to Clyde A. Zehner, vice-chairman of the Pennsylvania agricultural conservation committee, 120 carloads of wheat were purchased through the commodity credit corporation last month. In order to relieve the grain storage situation and to encourage the turning of wheat into meat, eggs and milk, which are greatly needed, congress authorized the corporation to sell 125,000,000 bushels of wheat. The grain is of good quality, for which an average price of 96 cents a bushel was paid in Pennsylvania, Zehner added.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Bartolomeo Eustachio gave the name to the Eustachian tubes. After 368 years they are known by no other name.

These two tubes extend from the pharynx to the ears. They admit air to the middle ear. Air pressure is thus equalized on either side of the eardrums.

Infection may enter the middle ear through these tubes. Middle-ear abscess may be formed. Children are susceptible to middle-ear abscess.

Especially those with scarlet fever or measles.

Middle ear abscess frequently affects the mastoid bone.

Middle ear infection is a leading cause of deafness.

Earsache, after colds or infections, should be checked.

Farmers Aided Salvage Drive

Lawrence County Farmers
Contributed Total Of 350
Tons In Recent Campaign

DID FINE JOB
FULKMAN STATES

Lawrence county farmers did a splendid job in aiding the war effort when they contributed 350 tons of scrap in the recent salvage drive conducted in the county, Dorris L. Fulkman, chairman of the rural collection stated today. This was gathered in 16 pools established throughout the county.

Pulaski township led the way, the two pools in that township netting 506 tons of scrap, while North Beaver at two collection points gathered 43.5 tons. Other leaders included Scott township, with 38.8 tons; Plaingrove township, 35.5 tons; Slippery Rock township, 35 tons; and Bessemer boro, 34 tons.

Those who acted as directors in their various townships and who helped to make the effort a success, according to Fulkman, were the following men:

Pulaski township, John Neal, J. T. Phillis, Harry M. Thomson; Scott township, Clarence F. Gardner, S. A. Locke, B. W. McCreary; Shenango and Taylor townships, William E. Currie, E. L. Houk, William H. Vaneman; Wayne and Perry townships, John W. Boots, William H. Walton, Clare G. Steffler; North Beaver and Union townships, J. Wylie Brewster, William Davis, Harry E. Nearby Counties Confused In Test

Mercer County Lacked Yellow, Blue Signals, Beaver Lacked Red And White

(Special To The News)
GREENVILLE, Nov. 17.—Confusion was the keynote in Monday's air raid drill in Mercer county, when the warning center in Sharon failed to transmit the yellow and blue signals which usually precede the red, or public one, Sharon schools were the only part of the Sharon-Farm area to participate in the drill.

Mercer and Sharpville received and observed the warning, too, but Greenville, which got the red signal ten minutes late, at 10:30, mobilized its civilian defense forces within eight minutes, despite its not having the period of yellow warning in which to notify those in charge.

BEAVER FALLS, Nov. 17.—Police Chief Ray Gorrell charged the Beaver county warning center in Beaver with failing to transmit to the Beaver Falls city control station both the red signal indicating the official start of the air raid test Monday and the all-clear signal at the end.

BUTLER, Nov. 17.—When the sirens sounded here Monday for the state-wide air raid test, the information desk at the telephone company was swamped with calls from persons wanting to know if the armistice had been signed, thereby showing great confidence in the progress of our troops in North Africa, and jamming the wires at the time they should be free.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB
Cosmopolitan club will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the green room of the Y. W. C. A.

NOT ALL INSTALLED
Not all the air raid sirens have been installed according to Chief Air Raid Warden Frank Sargent. City electricians who were installing one siren when the alert signal arrived yesterday had to leave the job and take shelter the same as other people.

Say Hamilton Aided Yankees

While Technically Under Arrest, He Helped Americans After Their Landing

LATER PAROLED AND IS AT ORAN

Although dispatches from the North African relative to the part that individuals have played in the campaign have so far been meager, one statement says that Major Edgar G. Hamilton, native of New Castle, who has been with the French Foreign Legion since the end of World War One, aided the Americans after their landing in the vicinity of Oran, just as his mother predicted he would.

Major Hamilton was commandant of the Port at Arzew, near Oran, but had been waiting out a six-month retirement period before being discharged from the French Foreign Legion for good.

When the Yanks landed, he was technically placed under arrest, the statement says, but at the same time led the Americans through the city which has been his home the greater part of the time he has served with the Legion, and which he knows like a book. Later he was paroled and went to Oran.

"I was completely surprised when I wakened to find the Americans in town," he said. "I put on my uniform and proceeded immediately to American headquarters. I am primarily an American but I'm glad I was not at the Legion post when my countrymen came."

New Castle Girl Crowned Queen

Miss Alice Sewall Is Honored At Edinboro State Teachers College

(Special To The News)
EDINBORO, Pa., Nov. 17.—At the recently held annual "E" Club ball at Edinboro State Teachers College Miss Alice Sewall of New Castle was crowned queen of the ball, and presented with a sweater with a block "E" upon it as evidence of her position.

Miss Sewall is a senior at Edinboro, and was chosen by the members of the "E" Club, which is an organization of all men who have won their varsity "E" at Edinboro. The queen is chosen primarily for above average interest in sports, and for scholarship and beauty. Miss Sewall has played on the varsity women's field hockey team, and last year was a member of the Junior class basketball team which won the college championship. Also during her Junior year Miss Sewall was a member of the Student Council, the student governing body on the campus at Edinboro. In addition, she is a member of the Y. W. C. A. organization and the Scarab club which is made up of all the students majoring in art education at Edinboro.

So it's easy?

Let's have this soup often!

1. Just empty contents of package into boiling water... add butter... simmer.
2. Pour your delicious home-cooked soup into 6 good-sized bowls.

Almost no work for you! And I predict your husband will be simply crazy about the soup. Real home-cooked soup, you know.

Delightful seasonings — and all those fresh vegetable flavors! The vegetables come in flake form, "dehydrated" (this process of removing moisture, while the vegetables are fresh, retains garden flavors). Then, too, you cook the vegetables for the first time yourself. They're not pre-cooked. So delicious tasting.

All this in every package. Seven choice vegetables: tomatoes, carrots, celery, onions, sweet bell peppers, spinach, parsley. Also seasonings, and rich egg noodles made from Gold Medal Durum Flour.

Thrifty, too! Six large bowls from every package. My staff and I recommend this product. Do try it.

WALMO SCHOOL PARENTS' NIGHT

Parents' night will be held at Walmo school on Wednesday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

All parents are being invited to go to the school Wednesday evening to inspect the new section of building, view the children's work and ask any questions of the teachers they wish.

One trouble is that we're still thinking of social reform instead of devoting all our energy to the reform of Germans and Japs.

MAN HURT AT WORK

Michael Roth, aged 44 years, of 411 East Reynolds street, suffered severe bruises of the left side at his work late Monday afternoon. He was engaged in unloading a panel when it slipped, striking him in the side. He was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital.

MAN INJURES BACK

Harry Kline, aged 47 years, of R. F. D. No. 1, Wampum, suffered a sprained back at his work last night and was removed to the Jameson Memorial hospital for treatment. Mr. Kline was lifting a heavy weight when he suffered his injury.

MILHOLLAND NEW ALLEGHENY COUNTY ORPHAN'S JUDGE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—James Milholland, 65, Pittsburgh attorney and former president of the Allegheny County Bar Association, today prepared to assume his duties as orphan's court judge in Allegheny county following his appointment by Gov. Arthur H. James. Governor James said Judge Milholland would serve until January 1944, succeeding Judge Edward C. Chalfant, who resigned.

State Orders Speed In Youth Induction Into U. S. Army

Questionnaires To Be Sent Out

State Selective Service Headquarters Boards To Start Action At Once

ABOUT 150,000 IN STATE AFFECTED

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—Approximately 150,000 Pennsylvania youths of 18 and 19 today awaited selective service questionnaires as local draft boards were urged to hasten their induction into the army.

The 422 local draft boards in the state were directed yesterday by Col. Benjamin F. Evans, acting state selective service director, to begin sending out the questionnaires "immediately." The draft head pointed out that President Roosevelt signed an amendment to the selective service law last week making the teen-age group eligible for military service. All had registered for selective service last June 30.

Will Be Classified
The questionnaires when received must be returned to local draft boards within 10 days. The boys will then be classified. Those placed in 1-A will later receive notification to appear for physical examination and if found physically fit can be ordered up for induction within 10 days' notice.

Evans said that the processing of the teen-age group would take at least a month and estimated that the calling up of the youths would generally begin in January and proceed at a rapid pace. A "very few" might be called up in December, he added. The induction of the teen-age group was expected to postpone calling up of married men with wives only, although "a few married men in each local board" will probably have to be called up in December, according to Evans. No married men with children will be inducted, however, unless they were married after Pearl Harbor or when their induction was considered imminent.

Thousands of boys who became 18 years of age after Jan. 1, 1942, still have to be registered. They are not included in the 150,000 who now await induction.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters intended for this column must be signed with name and address of writer.

Harrisburg, Pa. November 14, 1942.
Editor, New Castle News, New Castle, Pa.
Dear Sir:

Please find herewith enclosed statement regarding the Lawrence County Scrap Collection which I hope you will give a place in your newspaper.

Very truly yours,
COLLEY S. BAKER,
Executive Sec. for Penna. Scrap Collection Statement

Statement by Colley S. Baker, Executive Secretary of the Advisory Committee on Salvage of the State Council of Defense:
Lawrence County did such a grand job in connection with the collection of metal and rubber scrap during the months of September and October that I believe that special commendation should be given to R. D. Rosenberger, Chairman of the Lawrence County Salvage Committee, the members of his committee and the people of the county for their efforts.

Mr. Rosenberger has reported to Warren R. Roberts, Chairman of the Advisory Committee on Salvage of the State Council of Defense, that 77,121.133 pounds of metal and rubber were collected in the county from all sources during the period representing an average of 796.1 pounds for every man, woman and child in the county.

This is indeed a remarkable collection, and it is unfortunate that in accordance with the rules of the competition, of which this office had no control, it was impossible to certify this extraordinary patriotic achievement by the board of judges in Philadelphia last Thursday. This office and the Salvage Committees under the Council of Defense are interested primarily in the collection of what is known as general or household scrap, that is the scrap from the homes, the farms and commercial establishments. While the Salvage Committees in many counties have cooperated with representatives of the War Production Board's Conservation Division in obtaining scrap from industries, automobile graveyards and special projects, collection of materials from such categories does not come within their jurisdiction.

Mr. Rosenberger has certified that 9,048,000 pounds of metals and rubber, or a per capita collection of 93.4 pounds, resulted from the general or household salvage effort. This is a splendid record, a record accomplished by less than one-third of the counties of the State.

In addition, he reported that there had been collected 68,073.133 pounds of metal scrap from all other sources, including industries, automobile graveyards and special projects, which brought the per capita collection from all sources close to the 800 pound mark.

We have been advised that Mr. Rosenberger and his committee gave a tremendous amount of assistance in obtaining this additional scrap, but at the time the judges made the awards it considered the certification of Mr. Rosenberger on general salvage collections and the reports on the other collections furnished, as provided in the rules of the competition, by Regional Office of the War Production Board.

The State Salvage Committee is happy to accord to the people of Lawrence County all honors to which they are entitled, and it shall be our pleasure on a suitable date to be mutually arranged to present to your Salvage Committee a War Production Board Salvage Victory Pennant.

The state of Washington calls the willow goldfinch its state bird, although it has not been officially designated.

SCREEN AND STAGE STARS ENTERTAIN TROOPS ABROAD

These three stage and screen stars—Kay Francis, Carole Landis and Mitzi Mayfair—have landed in England where they will entertain United States troops stationed there. Kay Francis and Carole Landis are screen stars. Miss Mayfair, a dancer, was a member of the "Flying Showboat" cast which entertained troops stationed throughout the Americas.

Willkie Demands Allies Outline All War Aims

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A clear, substantial and early agreement between the United States and all our allies on war aims was demanded today by Wendell Willkie.

Willkie voiced sharp criticism of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent statement that he "had not become the king's first minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British empire."

"We should work today to make available presently to all the United Nations and, when the war is over, to all the world, access to the materials indispensable to economic self-development," Willkie said. "This cannot be accomplished by more declarations of our leaders, as in an Atlantic Charter, particularly when one of the two principals to that instrument has in the last few days seemingly defended the old imperialistic order and declared to shocked world: 'We mean to hold our own.'"

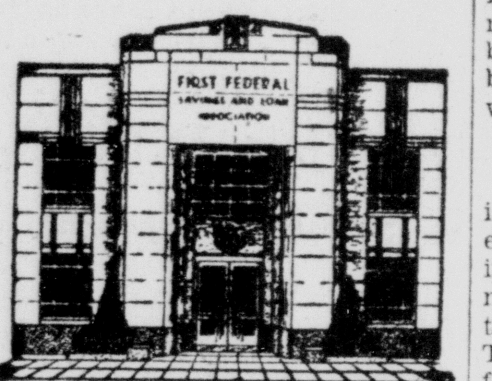

Willkie was the final speaker at the first day's session of the forum. President Roosevelt will address the forum by radio at 10:30 o'clock EWT tonight concluding the two-day session.

Other speakers yesterday included James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization; Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture; and Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder.

BLIND HELP OUT

(International News Service) SAN DIEGO.—Even the blind are doing their share for victory here in this war-conscious military city. More than two score men and women, totally or partially blind, are busily engaged each day in making mops and deck swabs for the navy, the marine corps and the army.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of O. C. D. Workers Are Outlined In This Column

CITY HALL SCENES

The alert has come in, likewise the blue, and now they're scurrying because the red signal is anticipated quickly. Police rush to attach the E to the police cars. Others in city hall fish their armbands from pockets and prepare to take over their inspection duties. OCD clerks and city hall clerks man telephones with D. O. Davies, city director of OCD, and his co-ordinator, Frank Sargent, overseeing.

PASSES DINNER PREPARATION
One person connected with the OCD heard the sirens. He dropped his preparations for serving dinner to the public. Putting an arm band around his left arm he marched into the street, thoughts of his customers having faded.

SIGNS DENOTE SHELTER
At the Murphy company sidewalk stood signs denoting the building as a raid shelter Monday. County Executive Director L. B. Round and Frank Sargent stepped into the business place. This is one building which has won praise for the way it has been prepared for raids.

PLAN NEW A. R. W. CLASS
There will be a meeting for the purpose of organizing a new class of air raid wardens, in Falcon hall at 7:30 p. m. November 19. The new class is desired from the third precinct of the eighth ward.

DO YOUR PART

At 7:30 p. m., November 27, there will be a meeting of residents of the second precinct of the second ward on the third floor of the City building. The meeting will be important. All persons who can should be present and should not leave things they can do for the other person to do, according to those in charge.

MEETINGS CANCELLED
Meeting which was scheduled for November 19 and 26 in the basement of St. Mary's church, have been called. However, there will be a meeting December 3 which will concern incendiary bombs.

GIRLS DOING THEIR PART
The daylight drill Monday morning came as a complete surprise to everyone. Some people were slow in answering their telephones, and no doubt were a little surprised, but the co-operation was very good. The lady wardens deserve credit, for every woman knows what a busy morning Monday is in almost every home. It isn't quite so difficult for the ones in the residential district, but think of those in the business district, who had to don their slacks and get on the job, sans makeup. Some of them looked a little sleepy, but they were on the job, and that is what counts. Of course, the men wardens were on the job as usual, but the ladies are stopping right along in this work and are really doing a fine job.

MONTHLY MEETING
Regular monthly meeting of the rescue squad will be held at eight a. m. Wednesday in the Central fire department.

FAILS TO OVERCOME NOISE
Women at work in homes in different sections of the city yesterday morning did not hear the sirens. One such report was received from the West Side and another from the North Hill. Sirens may be heard in some sections, yet not in other sections.

All the metal needed to make a 30-caliber machine gun could be obtained from: A pair of roller skates, two door hinges, one door lock, one old spade, one trash burner, one trash basket. That is why the United States is collecting scrap for war.

Present History Of Presbyterian Church

Grove City Congregation Reviews Century Of Progress This Week At Special Services

(Special To The News) GROVE CITY, Nov. 17.—Highlights of 100 years of the history of the First Presbyterian congregation here were presented last evening by Mrs. Mary McConkey, as the church opened a week of special services leading up to the Centennial Communion service next Sunday. Introduced at last evening's meeting were several families spanning three and four generations of affiliation with the local church.

The history revealed that the congregation totaled 13 members in 1842, and more than 1500 a century later. Only six ministers have served the church since 1874.

This evening a Community Night devotional and social meeting will be held; Wednesday evening, an historical pageant will be directed by Mrs. L. P. Shelley; Thursday night, Dr. Mark Depp, pastor of Christ Methodist church of Pittsburgh will speak; and Friday night will be a preparatory service for the Sunday Centennial Communion, with greetings from former pastors.

It is computed that each adult in the United States consumes on an average of 1355 pounds of food in one year.

PITTSBURGH'S FIRST AIR RAID BABY BORN

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—Mingling his walls with the walls of the sirens, Pittsburgh's first air raid baby was born during the air raid alert Monday.

Baby Kessler, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Kessler, of the city's north side, arrived at a local hospital shortly after the "yellow" signal was flashed over town.

IMPROVING LAST STREET
James Gibson, director of public improvements, stated today that resurfacing of South Beaver street got under way Monday. It is the last city maintained street from which car rails were removed to be improved.

LOANS TO WOMEN in men's shoes

We realize the problems of women who today are stepping into men's shoes—in offices, factories, and war plants, and we've arranged our loan service to meet their needs.

There's no need to worry about "people knowing." They won't, because loans are made on your own signature. Payments are sensibly planned on a reasonable monthly basis. If you need $25 to $250 or more, for any worthy purpose, come in to see us today. Quick, lunch-hour service. We'll be glad to serve you.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER, City Health Superintendent

NO TULAREMIA YET FOUND
Have you cooked yourself a bunny? So have I.

Harry gave me a nicely dressed rabbit. In order to be really scientific and a good cook too, I proceeded as follows:

Put the meat into a frying pan containing enough boiling salt water to cover it. Boil slowly until tender, then rapidly until water is all gone. Add butter to the pan and fry slowly until brown, seasoning to taste.

Oh, boy! Was it good? I didn't forget to mop up all the gravy for it contains some chemicals and vitamins which are valuable.

Rabbits and birds seem to be more plentiful here than in Ohio. No cases of tularemia have appeared yet. Better be careful anyhow. A good many people are wearing rubber gloves when dressing rabbits. That is fine if you can get the gloves.

We have gotten through half the season with no serious accidents. Wouldn't it be fine if we had no accidents this year. Crossing fences seems to be a pretty dangerous job. Better take out the shells before starting to climb around.

Warns Against Regimentation Of Industry

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—William P. Witherspoon of Pittsburgh, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, left a warning today that regimentation of industry is not the basic source of efficiency in industrial management.

Speaking at a dinner session of the American Association of Industrial Editors two-day conference, the NAM president said: "The wartime regimentation of industry is necessary to assure that those things are made which need to be made and that the materials to make them are available."

"But this regimentation must not be mistaken as a basic source of efficiency in industrial management—even in wartime. If the wartime regimentation exercised during the war is carried over into the post-war period, there will be no free enterprise—there will be no free enterprise and the most cumbersome disorganization of business and industry possible to imagine."

Plan Strategy Over the Desert

High over the desert in North Africa, Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews (right), U. S. Middle East commander, and Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Rescued With 'Rick' in the Pacific

Here are two members of the Rickenbacker plane crew that was found by the Navy stranded on a tiny Pacific island, 600 miles north of Samoa. They are Lieut. James C. Whitaker (left) of Burlingame, Cal., and Lieut. John J. De Angelis of Nesquehoning, Pa. Capt. Rickenbacker and all members of the party, except one, were rescued. The exception was Sergt. Kaczmarczyk, who died a few days before the rescue. (Central Press)

Wounded Japs Aided by Captors

When a U. S. vessel sunk two Japanese patrol ships off the Ellice Islands in the Pacific, it rescued sixteen enemy officers and men, six of whom were injured. A U. S. medical aid is shown working over one of the wounded Nipponese on the operating table, while another is seated awaiting his turn. This is an official U. S. Navy photo. (Central Press)

Speech Kicks Up Fuss

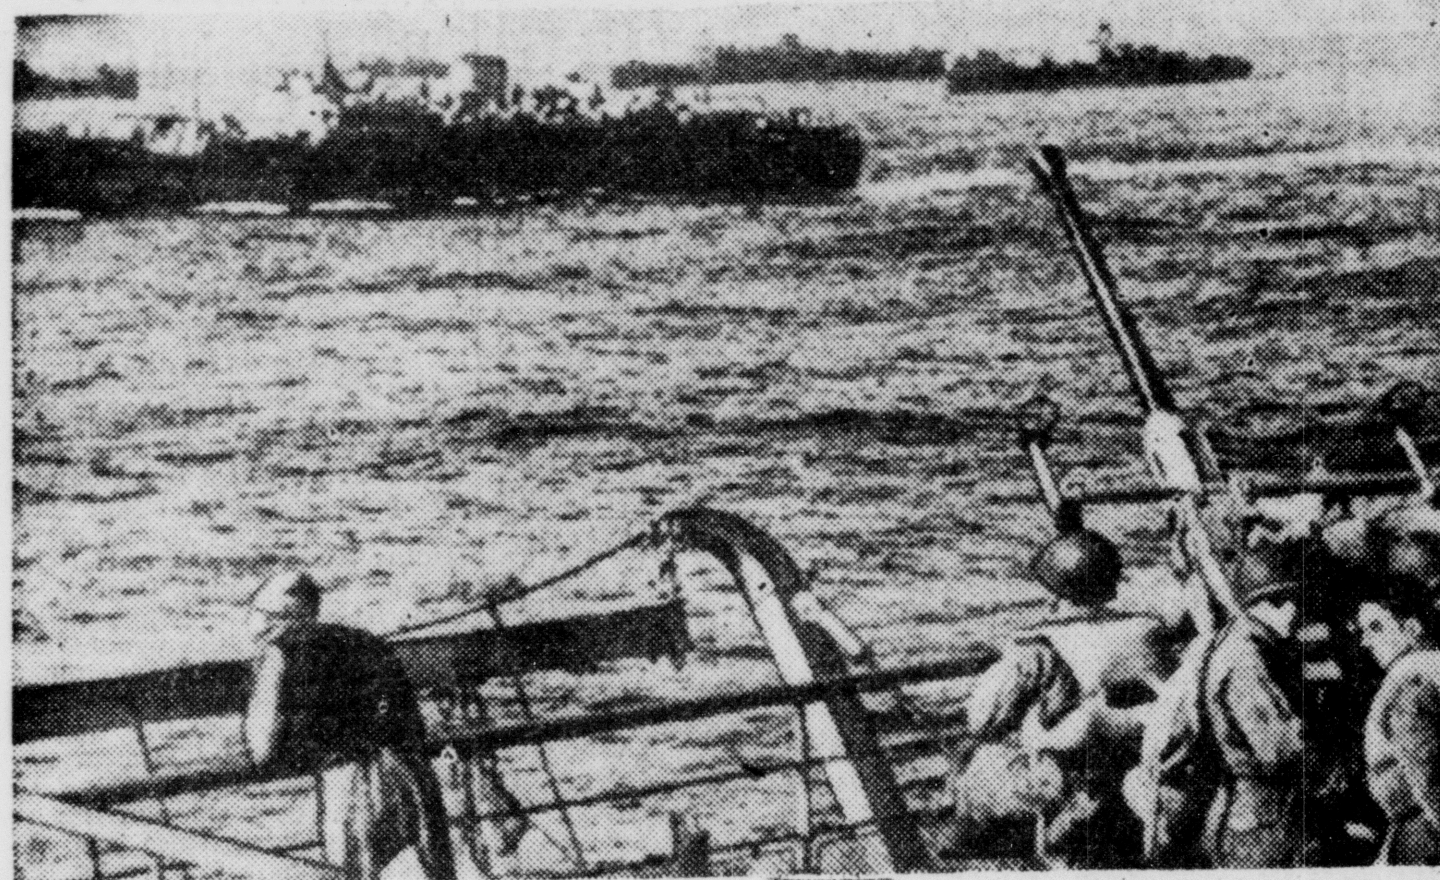

Baron Von Blomberg, nee William Fray before he was adopted by 7-year-old Baroness Maria Von Blomberg, created a furore in Hempstead, L. I., N. Y., when he made a speech before the Rotary Club saying that Americans should try to understand the Nazis and become friends. The FBI is expected to investigate his "love Germany" talk. (Central Press)

Died on 'Rick' Raft

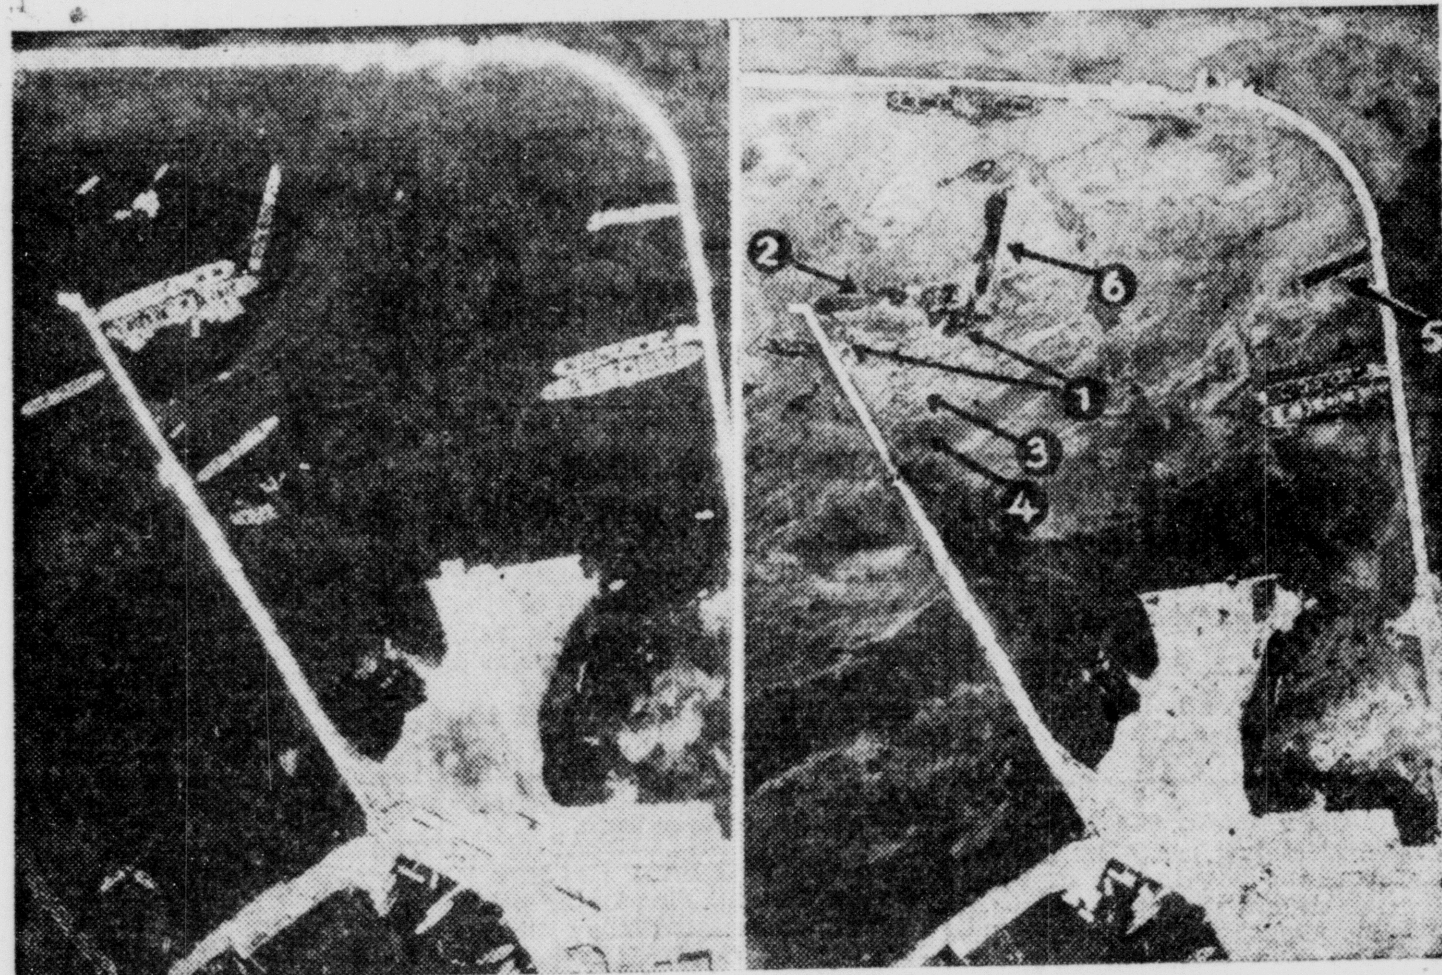

This is a recent picture of Sergt. Alexander Kaczmarczyk, 22, of Torrington, Conn., who was the only member of the Rickenbacker plane crew to die before Navy fliers sighted the survivors. He was buried at sea. Kaczmarczyk was on the life raft on which Rickenbacker and others were found when he died. (Central Press)

FIRST VIEWS OF 850-SHIP FLOTILLA AND UNITED STATES LANDING IN NORTH AFRICA

First photos showing a view of the gigantic 850-ship flotilla that carried American forces to occupy French North Africa and the raising of the Stars and Stripes over the occupied territory are shown here. In the background can be seen other ships packed with United States troops. At right, the American flag waves over a beach west of the French naval base at Oran, Algeria, as supplies and equipment are landed. A few natives can be seen in the photo watching the men and materiel being put ashore. (Central Press Cablephotos)

Before and After Bengazi Harbor Was Bombed

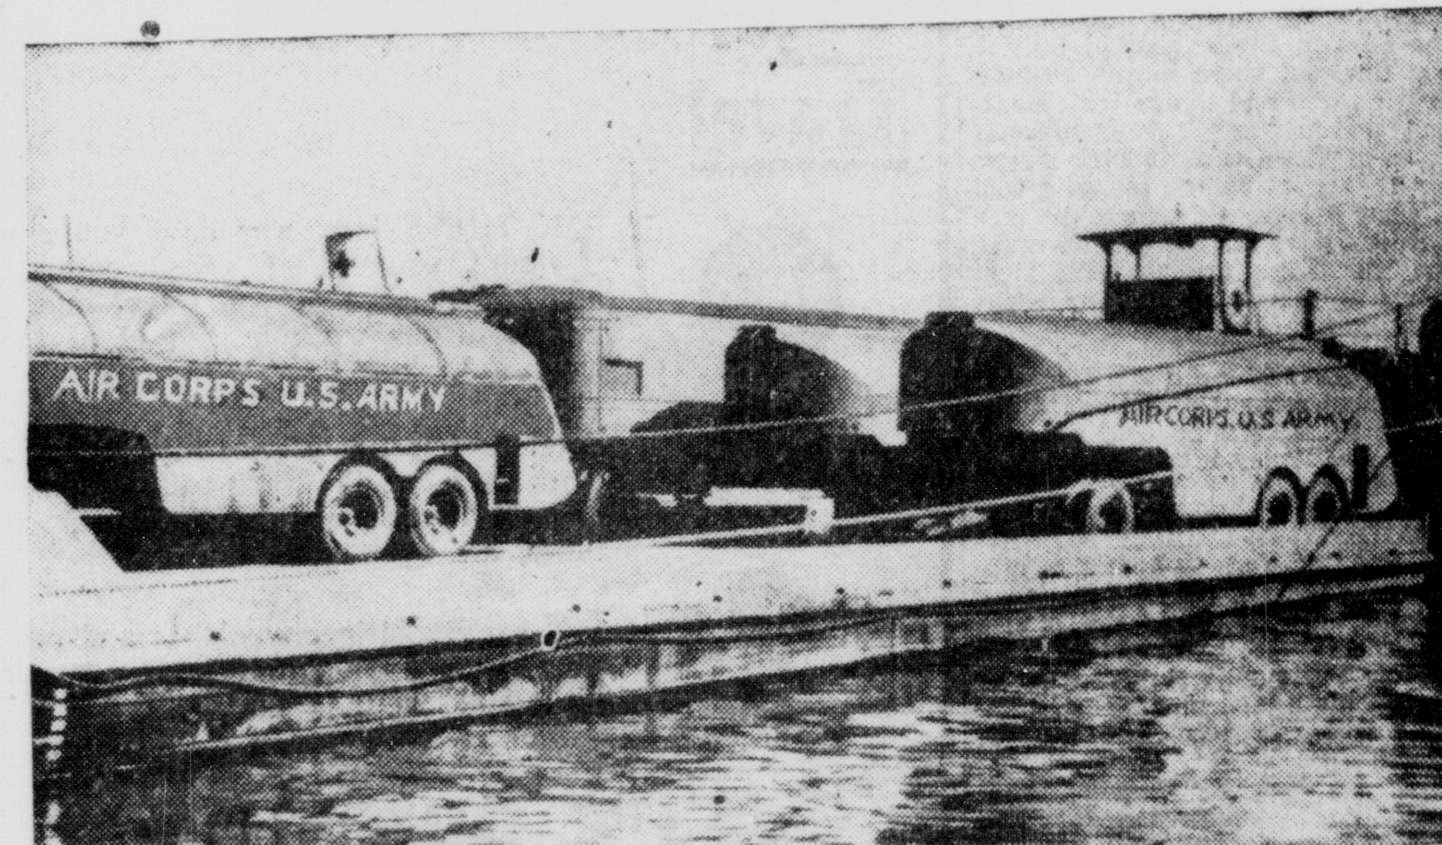

Bengazi harbor, one of Rommel's main supply bases, has become a graveyard of sunken ships as a result of recent bombings by RAF and U. S. fliers. The picture on the left was taken before the Allied fliers went into action. On the right, the results of the raid. A vessel is shown alongside of another wrecked ship. Only the stern and mass of wreckage is seen (1). The force of the explosion has blown up stern half of blasted ship (2). Remains of an Axis destroyer that turned over and is now lying on its port side with starboard rail above water (3). Two small wrecks hardly discernable (4). Ship ravaged by fire (5). Barely visible remains of a small vessel that is resting on the bottom of the sea (6). (Central Press)

Axis Prisoners Sleep After Capture in Egypt

Some of the thousands of Axis prisoners taken by the hard-hitting Allied forces in their drive on Rommel's army are shown in a barbed wire enclosure behind the lines. Sleep seemed to be the most important thing to many of these soldiers after undergoing a heavy pounding by British artillery. The photo is one of the first original pictures taken of the Allied offensive in Egypt. (Central Press)

Oil for U.S. Fighting Planes in Middle East

Proof that large quantities of U. S. war material have reached the Middle East is this picture showing United States Army Air Corps gasoline trucks coming ashore on a barge. These supplies helped the Allies gain mastery of the air in the Middle East and helped British fighters chase Marshal Rommel's Afrika Korps more than 500 miles from El Alamein, where retreat started. His losses are estimated at 75,000. (Central Press)

Kaiser Shows How

Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser, president of the United Seamen's Service, demonstrates in New York City how his workers construct vessels in record-breaking time. He assembled an 81-piece, 14-foot long, 4-foot high model of a liberty freighter before an audience of seamen and maritime officials. (Central Press)

BOSTON FIREMEN REMOVE BODIES OF DEAD COMRADES

Trapped when the roof and a wall of the century-old Lyceum Hall in East Boston, Mass., collapsed during a fire, several firemen were killed and at least 30 were trapped but rescued. Fellow firemen are pictured above removing bodies of the dead from the wreckage. Several escaped injury by leaping to the aerial ladder of the first truck shown buried in debris. (Central Press Phonephoto)

British Riflemen Advance in Western Desert

British riflemen take shelter behind a charred truck taken in the advance in Egypt. The retreat of Marshal Rommel's Afrika Korps has turned into a rout. Rommel's forces are still in flight more than 500 miles from El Alamein, where the retreat started. The Axis losses in Egypt are estimated at 75,000. (Central Press)

First Photo of U. S. Troops Landing in Africa

American Ranger troops stream ashore at Oran, Algeria, after reaching the beach in landing barges. The landing opened the drive for the control of North Africa, which resulted in the capture of Algeria and Morocco. Both U. S. and British troops are now moving on Tunisia. This photo, radiated from London, is the first to show U. S. soldiers invading North Africa. (Central Press)

MORE MEN WORK IN NEW CASTLE THAN EVER BEFORE

And still more men will be engaged in our industries in the near future . . . We have attained the goal we hoped for—worked for and prayed for. New Castle is a live industrial city now. New Castle is contributing substantially to war production. The smoke that rolls from the stacks bodes ill for those who threaten America's great system of free enterprise. New Castle's answer to the challenge is a force to be reckoned with. Idle land and abandoned industrial plants have burst into life. New Castle's citizens have risen to the task.

WE MUST HOUSE 400 MORE FAMILIES

The job has just begun—we have just begun to fight. A few years ago vacant houses were begging for tenants—but no longer. Now the shortage of living quarters is acute. There is not room for the new working population. Not room? Why New Castle can house a thousand more families if need be! One new challenge leads to another. We have met the challenge of more production—met it heroically. What about the challenge for housing space for new workers? Is there a patriotic citizen who doesn't have the answer to that? Is there a vacant room in all New Castle that will be left idle when the need is known? Certainly not! We are patriots from the very beginning . . . You newcomer to New Castle—WELCOME. We asked you to come—we'll provide for you. Hundreds of our homes will be revamped to make apartments for your families. We want you to like us. We want you to make New Castle your home from now on . . . The challenge is welcome to us. We'll show the new industries that New Castle is a good city to come to—to stay with, and to find happiness and prosperity.

HOW YOU CAN SHARE THE RESPONSIBILITY

Organization to make it easy to do your part in this project is being completed. Contributions of time, workers, office space and equipment is being made by patriotic citizens and industries. A Housing Committee has been appointed by the instigation of the United States Citizens' Service Corps and the recommendation of the county OCD Director.

The Women's Division of the United States Service Corps will undertake this canvass. This group of women are contributing with unrestrained patriotism many tasks asked of them. This one will be tremendous. When the Corps member, whose C. D. arm band so designates her, calls on you, make her visit pleasant. Supply cheerfully the information she must have. THAT'S THE FIRST THING YOU CAN DO TO SHARE YOUR RESPONSIBILITY IN OUR NEW CHALLENGE.

New Castle To Face Aliquippa For Crown On Thanksgiving Day

Class AA WPIAL Classic Will Be Unfolded In Huge Pitt Stadium

'CANES TOP LOOP WITH 133 MARKERS

New Castle and Aliquippa high will play for the Class AA WPIAL football championship on Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 26) in the Pitt stadium, Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner announced today.

The rival schools, top teams in the Gardner point-system employed in selecting finalists, were selected during last night's meeting of the football committee, in Pittsburgh.

New Castle headed the Double A parade with 133 points while the Quips came next with 130 markers, Gardner stated.

Regarding the game, Gardner said:

Committee, Schools Agree
"The committee and the two schools agreed to play the game on Thanksgiving Day afternoon, provided Pitt stadium is available. In the event that the stadium can not be secured, the contest will be played elsewhere, probably in the Beaver Valley."

The committee last night was unable to check with Pitt officials regarding the playing site. The official O. K. is expected sometime today.

The game will start at 2 o'clock. Tickets, which will go on sale at the Sporting Goods store, 105 North Mercer street, and in the junior highs within the next few days, carry a two price scale.

If purchased here, the adult price is 85 cents; student price 40 cents. At the stadium, grown ups will have to shell out $1.10. Since student tickets will not be sold at the stadium, pupils, too, will have to dig down for an adult price, unless they purchase pastebards here.

Aliquippa, undefeated and untied, defeated Butler, 26-0; Ambridge, 7-6; Ellwood City, 14-13; Midland, 40-6; and Beaver Falls, 19-7, in WPIAL competition.

The 'Canes mowed down Butler, 41-0; Beaver Falls, 26-0; Washington, 13-7; Mt. Lebanon, 20-6; and Scott, 53-6, in their Double A games.

Fourth Meeting

The play-off clash pairs the rivals in a grid contest for the fourth time. In 1929, New Castle scored a 13-7 decision and came back the following year with a 13-2 triumph.

In 1935, the Quips got back one of those losses, 20-6. That marked the last meeting between the schools.

Selection of New Castle means that the Beaver Valley team will vie for the western Pennsylvania championship for the first time since

Boys and girls alike will go for these bright plaid Kaynee flannel shirts. They are new to boys as they have been a favorite for several years, but this year the girls are taking to them in a big way to wear with slacks and other sports attire. The material is substantial cotton flannel in warm check and plaid patterns in red, blue, brown and green.

THE WINTER CO.

1924. While New Castle has won WPIAL crowns four times since '24, the locals were never required to participate in a contest for the title.

Faculty Manager Gardner represented the local school at the meeting. He was accompanied by Principal Clara B. Book and Head Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh.

Set Other Dates
During the session, Dormont and Hurst were picked to meet for the Class A title on Saturday, November 21, at either Jeannette or Clairton. In Class B, Leetsdale and Bridgeville will meet on Saturday afternoon on Langley field.

Rickey-Durocher To Convene Today

Lip's Status To Be Cleared; Bulletin Expected In 48 Hours

By JACK MAHON (International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—One of the newest baseball questions of the winter—and particularly of the 1943 season—will be answered here this week when Leo (The Lip) Durocher and Branch (The Brain) Rickey, the two key men in the plans of the Brooklyn Dodgers, finally get together over a cup of tea and talk business for the last time.

Brother Durocher, after emulating Judge Crater, the invisible man and Hamlet's ghost last evening on a plane trip to our fair village, was expected to confer with the Brain today. Before doing so Leo was supposed to check with the Brooklyn draft board, with which he registered, to ascertain just what plans Uncle Sam might have for him.

The Lip has been quoted as saying: (1) He had applied for a Navy commission and (2) That he never applied for any kind of commission but would enter the army as a private if called.

Leaving that subject where it belongs, in the hands of the draft board and the mind of Durocher let us consider the latest developments in this all-important matter.

Other Angles, Too
First the Brain has gone on record as saying: "I expect to have the managerial situation for Brooklyn straightened out by the end of the week. I have not heard from Leo Durocher but expect to see him this week. There are other angles besides his draft status which must be ironed out."

Rickey, who has been as unavailable as FDR to the average baseball scribe in the last 10 days, has evidently realized the fate of the Gowanus flock and their leader is of importance to the civilized baseball world. He announced yesterday that, commencing Thursday, he will hold a weekly press conference, ala Roosevelt, to inform the world of the state of affairs along the flatbush front.

So expect a bulletin on the Dodger managerial situation within 48 hours!

Big League Ump Beat Wife, Charge

George Moriarity, Of American Loop, Is Held On $300 Bond

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Nov. 17.—George Moriarity, veteran American league baseball umpire and former manager of the Detroit Tigers, today was held on $300 bond on a warrant charging him with assault and battery on his wife.

The wife, Mary, charged that Moriarity struck and choked her, and for more than an hour sat on her and pinched her nose last Friday. Later, she was ejected from their Detroit home, she said.

Appearing before Judge Joseph A. Gillis, Moriarity pointed to some scratches on his face and said: "Do you see these? She did that to me."

Railway Express Handling Crowd Again Today, Deluge Expected

Railway Express Agency headquarters, West Washington street, had resumed its tire collection task in earnest today.

A "substantial shipment" of needed government acceptance forms was received during the morning, and district motorists began to telephone in once more. Many made personal calls to dispose of their extras.

The express concern had been handicapped somewhat for several days because of a shortage of official forms, but had carried on to perfection under difficulty.

Two depots here bulged with the growing mountain of tires today. When Uncle Sam will move the stockpiles, Railway Express men could not say.

Pilgrim Fellowship Gathers Here With Congregationalists

Round Table Conference Hosts To Northwestern Penna Unit; David J. Price Named President

Delegates from Columbus Community, Spring Creek, West Spring Creek, Guys Mills, Meadville, Kane, Farrell, Sharon, and Beaver Falls attended the Northwestern Penna unit of the Pilgrim Fellowship of the Congregational Christian churches, Sunday afternoon, at the First Congregational church.

At the business session for organization David J. Price, this city, was chosen chairman pro-tem, and Miss Frances Cope, this city, secretary pro-tem.

Everett J. Campbell, of the Smithfield Congregational church, outlined the objectives and program of the National Pilgrim Fellowship, together with the particular interest in Hartman Center, Milroy, which is the state center of the organization.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are: David J. Price, president; Miss Alice Hochuli, of Beaver, secretary-treasurer; William Lloyd, of this city, councillor of the Unit.

After the business meeting there was a social period, in charge of Jack Matthews. Tea was served, and the delegates attended the Round Table Conference, held at the church, at 6:30.

The serving of refreshments was in charge of Miss Isabel Price and Miss Louise Mann.

Legion Of Honor Members Gather

Complete Plans For Aiding With Fall Reunion At Meeting Monday Evening

Legion of Honor members gathered in The Cathedral Monday evening, when plans were completed for aiding the Valley of New Castle Consistory with the reunion opening this evening, and completing plans for other events.

The meeting was presided over by Senior Vice Commander Fred M. Alexander in the absence of Commander Ralph Jordan, who is still unable to get about from a sprained ankle.

CONSISTENT SCORERS

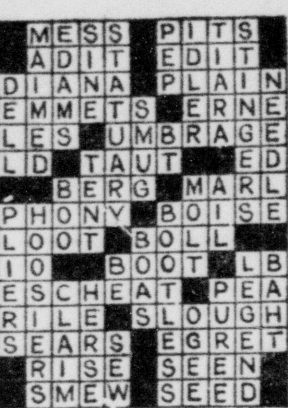

ATHENS, Ga.—Georgia has scored in every game played since Wallace Butts began his second year as head coach at the institution. Leo Costa, the place-kicking expert, tallied in three games as a freshman and has kicked at least one point in the last 28 tilts in which the Bulldogs have performed. That's two scoring records for the boys in the S. E. C. to shoot at.

NEW LOW

DETROIT—Only 34 yards by rushing and 11 by passing in rain and mud in the 10-0 defeat by Marquette is the lowest total ever achieved by a Detroit team in 18 years under Gus Dorais.

ATHLETICALLY-MINDED

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—A survey of the approximately 1,300 apprentice seamen located at the Midshipmen's school at Notre Dame—they will be midshipment for 90 days following their 30-day indoctrination course, and will eventually be commissioned ensigns—shows that 75 percent of them participated in intercollegiate or advanced intramural athletics in college, and that 35 percent of them won letters in intercollegiate competition. It would seem that athletics must do something to a boy to enhance his value as officer material for Uncle Sam's Navy, reformers and critics to the contrary.

HEADS "M" CLUB

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—Ollie Hunter, Erie, Pa., star of Notre Dame's undefeated cross-country team which has beaten Loyola of Chicago and Illinois, was recently elected president of the Monogram Club, made up of campus lettermen. Wally Ziemba, Hammond, Ind., griddier, was named vice-president; Bob Neff, Chester, W. Va., right tackle, is the new secretary; and Owen (Dippy) Evans, South Bend left half, is treasurer.

WHAT A NAME!

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Johnny Strzykowski, the Milwaukee youngster who finished high school only last February, but attained sophomore ranking through second semester and double summer session classes, is gaining stardom on the Marquette university football team.

NOBLE DEED

NEW YORK—Every time one of Trainer Andrew Schuttlinger's horses wins, he gives a portion of his earnings to war relief.

SISTI LEAVES

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass.—Angelo Sisti, big tackle, has left Boston College to join the Army's Meteorology Bureau.

Mail Earlier Than Ever For Christmas '42

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The post office department's advice today is not just mail early for Christmas—it's mail even earlier.
The department warned that the bulk of Christmas mail must be in the post offices by December 1 if Santa Claus is expected to arrive on time.
Unprecedented wartime demands on the postal and transportation systems, plus a prospective record volume of Christmas mailings necessitate earlier mailings than ever before, the department explained.

Beware Gasoline Pill Racketeers

"Magic" For Turning Water Into Motor Fuel Dupes Ration-Weary Civilians Daily

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Nov. 17.—"Step up, folks, and buy your gasoline pills. Guaranteed to turn water into high grade motor fuel in just five minutes."

Well—not exactly. But there are plenty of people in the state being victimized every day by the racket, and police warn ration-weary civilians to beware of the "sellers" who peddle their wares to the unsuspecting public.
The story is told of a motorist who pushed his auto into a filling station near Erie and told the attendant to see if he was out of gas. Peering into the tank with a flashlight, the attendant confirmed his fears, but he refused to fill the tank when the would-be customer couldn't produce his ration book. "Ok, then. Give me a tank full of water," said the motorist.
While the astonished attendant watched, he filled the tank with water, took two pills from his pocket, dropped them in and then climbed in his car and started the motor.
Racing after him, the station owner begged for the secret. A few minutes later he purchased two of the magic "gasoline pills" for five dollars each and joined the ever growing list of suckers falling for the new war-born rackets.

Other rackets spotlighted by the records of the Erie National Better Business Bureau is the old gag of selling "blackout candles" and incendiary bomb extinguishers.

Goldstein, Sandler Plead No Defense

Charged With Conspiracy To Fix Price Of Army Caps, Fined $750 Each

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Samuel Goldstein and his partner, Max Sandler, pleaded no defense on Monday to charges of conspiracy to fix the price of army caps and were fined $750 each by Federal Judge George A. Welsh.

The pair changed their pleas from "not guilty" as a jury was about to be selected to try them. The Ribbon Narrow Fabric Co., of New York, five labor unions and six of their officers and eight other individuals.

The defendants are charged with entering into a scheme to fix the price of 2,000,000 army caps for the government. Those on trial are among 17 indicted last November 28.

The radio distress signal, SOS, does not mean literally, "Save Our Souls," or "Save Our Ship." It was chosen because of the speed and clarity with which it can be transmitted.

Lend-Lease Aid Will Not Lessen

President Assures Allied Nations American Goods, Services To Continue At Record Peak

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Lend-lease goods and services to the allied nations reached a record peak of $815,000,000 last month and these countries have President Roosevelt's assurance that American aid will not diminish "in the slightest."

In a special statement issued by the White House, the president said that lend-lease operations for October were a third higher than for any previous month despite the tremendous task during the past four months of arming, equipping and transporting the strong AEF now in North Africa.

Mr. Roosevelt cautioned against unnecessarily assuming that the same record can be maintained every month, but he added that the steady increase in production is likely to mean a growing rise in aid furnished the allies for the next year.

The figures, Mr. Roosevelt said,

"show how wrong the Axis was in assuming that our aid to our allies would sharply decline once we had been brought into the war."

Gas Ration Coupons Must Be Identified

OPA Cautions Owner's License Number, State Of Registration Must Be On Back

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The office of price administration said Monday that east coast motorists must have identifications written in ink on the back of their gasoline ration coupons for any purchase they make beginning November 21.

A similar requirement will be made under the nation-wide gasoline rationing program which goes into effect December 1.

Motorists will be required to write the license number of their car and the state of registration on the back of each coupon in order to prevent theft and misuse of the coupons.

At the same time, the OPA announced that it is not planning to ration used cars at the present time.

Extra Demands Of Wartime Being Met By 1200 Workers In Penal Institutions

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—An extra shift of workers to meet production demands for hosiery and underwear at Eastern State Penitentiary has been authorized by the Prison Labor Division, Secretary of Welfare E. Arthur Sweeney disclosed here.

In a report to Sweeney, F. Herbert Cooper, division director, disclosed that more than 1200 prisoners were employed in Pennsylvania penal institutions on various work projects.

At the Western State Penitentiary, where the production of state license tags has been discontinued because of a lack of metal, prisoners soon will start to use the huge stamping machines to turn out tool boxes for the army, Sweeney said.
